New cat law is delayed

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

Rather than raise a howl, the Romulus City Council voted to "paws" for a study session prior to voting on a proposed cat ordinance that would require cat owners to keep their pets on leashes when out of doors.

A written copy of the proposed ordinance was in the council packet and on the agenda Monday night, but Councilman Ellis Pennington asked that the discussion and vote on the proposal be delayed until after a study session could be held in the near future.

Pennington's tabling motion won the support of fellow Councilmen Jimmie Raspberry and Russell Lambert, as well as Mayor Pro Tem Mary Ann Banks. No date has been set yet for the study session.

If the proposed cat control amendment is approved in its current form, catowners would have to:

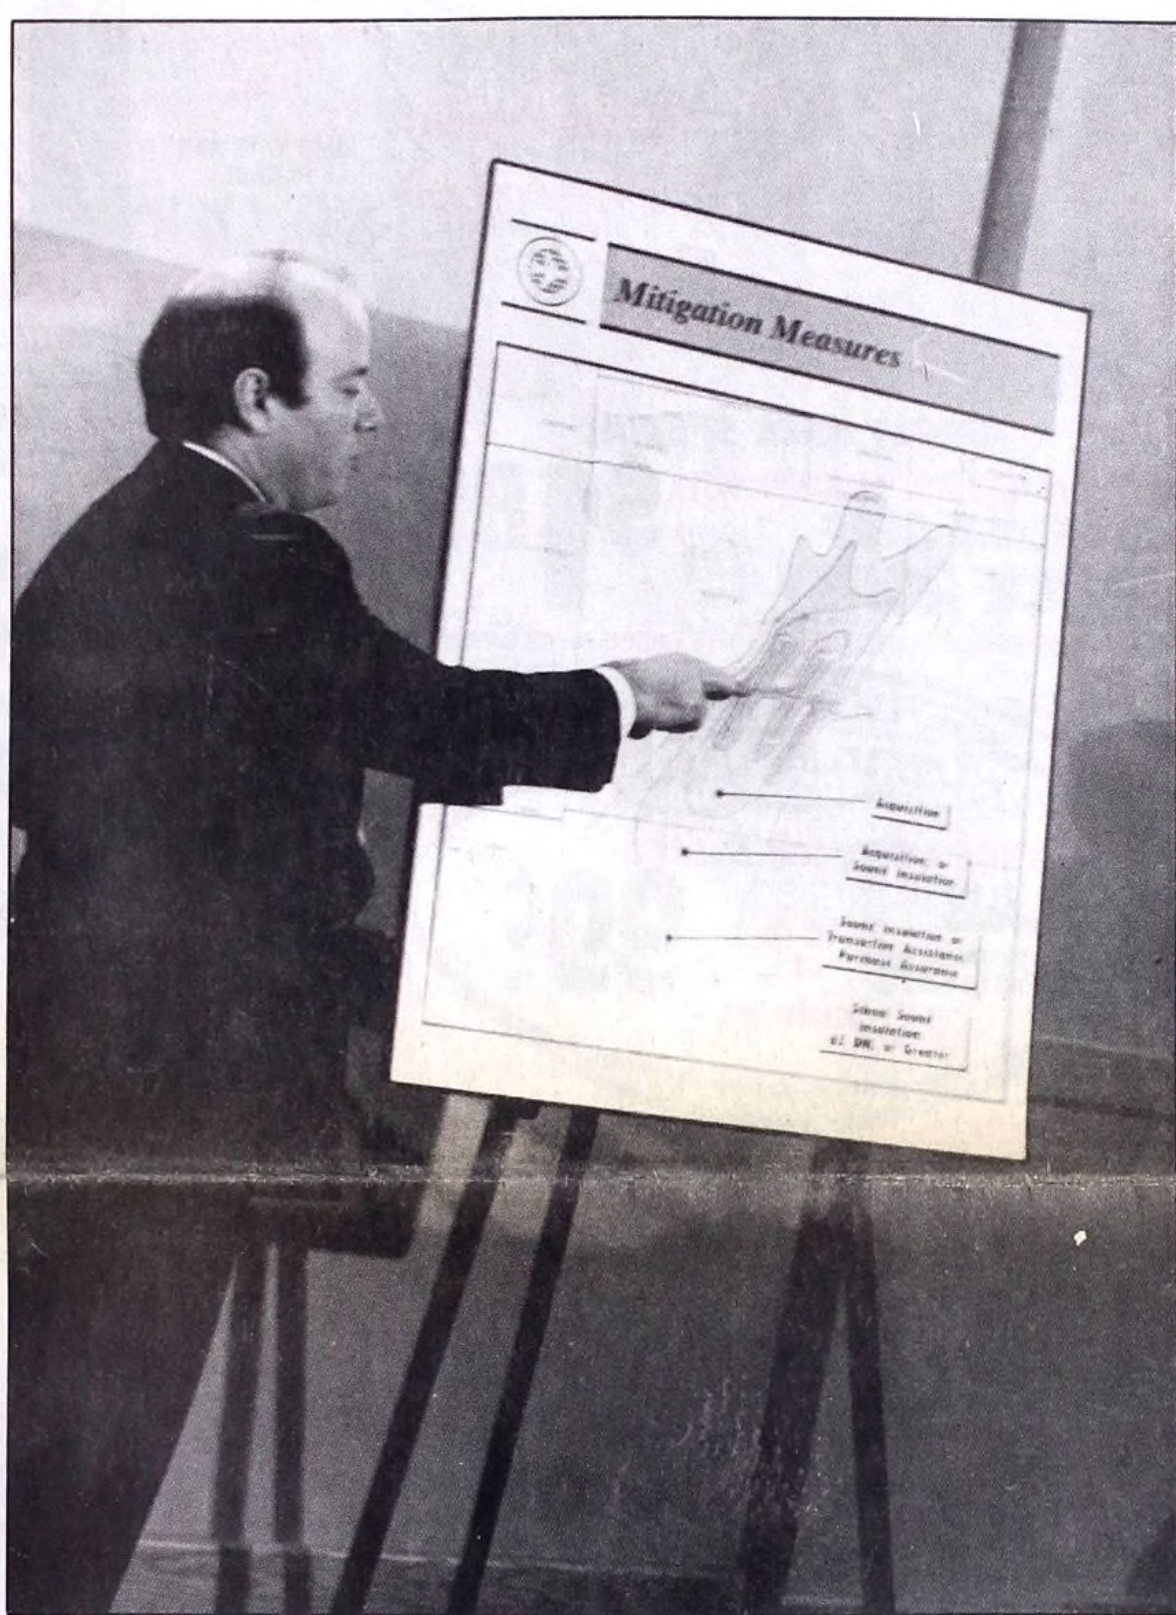

- have their felines vaccinated and licensed.
- keep their cats on leashes when out of door.
- limit the number of cats in their "kennel" to five.
- keep their cats from damaging any other resident's property.

The ordinance also would outlaw any cats, who are known to kill, worry or injure livestock, habitually chase vehicles, snap or attack pedestrians on public streets or walkways, overturn garbage pails or damage gardens.

The cost for cat licenses (similar to dogs) would be $5 for one year, $9 for two years and $13 for three years. Neutered cats (and dogs) could be licensed for a much lower rate such as $1 for a year, $2.50 for two years or $4 for three years.

Senior citizens could purchase cat licenses for half prices.

If a loose cat is picked up by animal control agents it would cost $5 to get the feline back, plus $2 extra for every day it was in city control. After 72 hours of confinement by the animal control agents, the pet could be sold or destroyed.

Airport airing

Romulus residents will be given a special up-to-date land acquisition report on the Metro Airport expansion plan and its impact on their homes on Tuesday Feb. 9 at 7:30 p.m. in the City Council Chambers. Wayne County Deputy Executive Michael Duggan, County Commissioner Bryan Amman and 22nd State Representative Greg Pitoniak are expected to attend the session that is open to the public. MEAP scores frustrate board

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

Romulus Community School Board members expressed great dissatisfaction with the district's 1992 Michigan Educational Assessment Program test scores Monday night and demanded greater effort on behalf of the administration and faculty in upgrading those figures.

Veteran board member Dan Bales, along with other board members, complained that elected officials do not feel that teachers and others are working hard enough to create change.

"We've invested a lot of money (via computers) and don't see the in-depth positive results we are hoping for," Bales said.

Superintendent Dr. William Bedell said he doesn't blame board members for their frustration over poor MEAP scores down through the years.

"It's a damn embarrassment to the entire district," Bedell said. "I've been here for 13 years and I've been telling you the truth, but hearing the same story over and over makes it seem like an excuse."

Bedell asks school board members and the public "to look at all three levels of the various class scores and you will see that we are raising students from the 'low' to the 'moderate' level."

But, Bedell added "that does not show up on regional newspaper charts, since they only list the top 'satisfactory' level on their comparative lists."

For instance the Romulus figures show that low reading scores in the seventh and 10th grades dropped from 50.2 to 45.8 and from 50.8 to 33.6.

At the same time 10th grade readers showed scores jumping in the moderate level from 31.4 to 36.2.

Similar trends were shown in low math scores as the fourth graders rate dropped from 66.9 to 52.3, seventh graders from 60.1 to 48.0 and 10th graders from 84.8 to 65.9.

The math scores in the moderate range also showed a jump with fourth graders rising from 22.9 to 24.8, seventh graders going from 26.8 to 41.9 and 10th graders from 11.3 to 25.8.

Going against the positive MEAP trends in the district this year were slight drops in fourth grade "satisfactory" scores from 19.1 to 16.6 and seventh grade math scores that fell from 13.1 to 10.1.

MEAP scores will take on added importance soon, as all students will be required to pass the tests beginning in 1997 to earn a state endorsed high school diploma.

Presently students may graduate without state endorsed diplomas, but they (current eighth graders) will not be able to do so beginning in 1997.

While the "overall MEAP score levels are still unacceptably low," administration officials said, they are pleased with the upward trend in most of the test levels.

Similar MEAP score problems were registered in other western Wayne County school districts.

Some districts such as Romulus and Inkster refused to even release their MEAP statistics to the metropolitan dailies, citing claims that the limited figures given by the regional media do not totally represent the true picture of students' knowledge.

Top education administrators continue to say that MEAP tests were created to give various school districts a guide for themselves and were not made for comparisons between districts.

Meanwhile parents and others ask if "we can't use MEAP scores as a comparison guide, what can we use?"

Clinton's pro-abortion stance raises comments, concern

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

While the impact of President Bill Clinton's executive orders on abortion issues will be minimal in the Romulus area at this time, leaders on both sides are expressing both hope and concern about their causes.

Pro-choice advocates are hoping that the U.S. Congress will pass a freedom of choice act, so that the "Roe versus Wade" decision will become a law rather than a Supreme Court ruling.

... was ludicrous to think that use of fetal tissue to help victims of Alzheimer's disease, diabetes or epilepsy, would in any way increase the number of abortions.

- Linda Spray
Northland Family Planning director

Pro-life forces are concerned that Clinton's actions could create an even higher rate of abortions in coming years.

The Clinton executive orders included:

- banning the so-called gag rule that forbade health workers at federally funded health clinics from discussing the abortion option with pregnant women.

- permitting the use of fetal tissue in federally financed medical research, even if that tissue came as a result of an abortion.

- allowing U.S. military personnel and their dependents overseas to undergo abortions in military hospitals, at their own expense.

Linda Spray, director of the Northland Family Planning facility on Wayne Road in Romulus, said it was "ludicrous to think that use of fetal tissue to help victims of Alzheimer's disease, diabetes or epilepsy, would in any way increase the number of abortions."

The Family Planning site in Romulus was one of many that was victimized this summer by someone who doused a putrid chemical inside the building forcing various offices to close for one or more days.

No one has been arrested for the damage to the building. Spray said several fumigations have been needed to rid the building of the overpowering smell, but the aroma does slip

Houses to be razed due to airport expansion

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

The first five of the vacant Wayne County owned homes, purchased to make way for an expanded Metro Airport, have been slated for demolition.

The addresses of the soon-to-be-razed homes are: 15360, 15531, 15991 and 15685 Vining Road and 15255 Wayne Road, according to David J. Paul, director of the city's Department of Building, Safety and Engineering.

In a memo to Mayor Beverly McAnally, Paul said the demolition permits have been issued to Homrich Inc., whose agents have submitted all the required utility clearances as well as the demolition agreement form and a $200 performance bond for each property.

McAnally and City Council members pressed Wayne County officials to step up their home demolition efforts, after it was reported that a Taylor woman was raped inside one last November and several fires, believed to have been started by vandals, were set (including one while the council was in session on December 14).

The vacant house issue gained even greater notoriety when Metro Airport security forces used one or more of the vacant homes to conduct explosive detection and detonation exercises, angering McAnally because one of the blasts occurred about a mile from Merriman Elementary School.

An agreement on never conducting such training sessions (with guns and explosives) within the city of Romulus apparently has been reached by city and county representatives.

The agreement was supposed to be have been finalized in Wayne County Circuit Court last Friday, but was postponed for two weeks.

Since the demolition training sessions occurred earlier this month, a gas leak was reportedly found shortly after 4 p.m. Jan. 12 at 15531 Vining Road (one of the homes to be demolished soon).

Fire Chief William Greenslait wrote a memo to McAnally stating the firefighters were called to that address because of a gas leak problem.

"Wayne County workers were on site to board up the structure and moved the gas meter causing the line to break. Eight fire personnel responded to the scene and plugged the piping until Mich Con arrived," he continued.

Greenslait said it also was noted that "this house was used recently by the Wayne County Sheriff for training purposes."

DIGEST

Purse snatcher victimizes woman

A 38-year-old Coldwater woman had her purse snatched Friday night, Romulus police aid, while she was walking through the lobby of the Merriman Executive Inn on Merriman Road.

The victim told police her attacker grabbed her purse about 9 p.m. and then fled into a wooded area outside the hotel.

A male worker at a nearby restaurant later found the victim's purse minus only her money, police said.

The attacker was described as a black male in his early 20s. He stood about 5 feet 10 inches tall and was wearing dark clothes, police were told.

2 city firemen resign their posts

Two Romulus firefighters, Corey A. Chandler and Mark Wilhide, have resigned their positions here.

Chandler, who resigned effective Jan. 3, has been hired as a firefighter by Garden City.

Wilhide, who resignation letter was dated Jan. 1, 1993, has served with the local fire department for the past 12 years. He has returned to the Westland Fire Department.

Disabled needs are revealed

Seven Romulus City Hall updates to bring the building up to compliance with the Americans with Disabilities Act have been revealed.

David J. Paul, director of the department of building, safety and engineering, listed the updates as:

- 1-re-striping handicap parking spaces.
- 2-installing handicap hand rails on both sides of the front ramp leading into City Hall.
- 3-installing new partitions and grab bars in bathrooms, adding full length mirror in men's restroom and changing plumbing fixtures.
- 4-modifying passenger elevator.
- 5-altering two public phones.
- 6-changing public counters to be 36 inches in height and width.
- 7-alter or replace drinking fountains.

5 are reappointed to city commissions

Mayor Beverly McAnally has reappointed three members of the city's Planning Commission to new terms.

The trio includes Sheldon Chandler, Howard Kesner and Fred Williams. The new terms will expire on Jan. 31, 1996.

Also reappointed to the Property Disposition Committee were John Roundtree and Sharon Walker. Their terms expire on Jan. 25, 1996.

Burglar takes $900 worth of goods

The owner of a Pennsylvania Street home told Romulus police a weekend burglar stole $900 worth of electronic goods.

The intruder forced the rear door of the home and removed a telephone answering machine, a 19-inch television, a cassette stereo and a full size microwave oven.

The home in the 33000 block of Pennsylvania Street was entered sometime between 11:30 p.m. Saturday and 7:25 a.m. Sunday, police said.

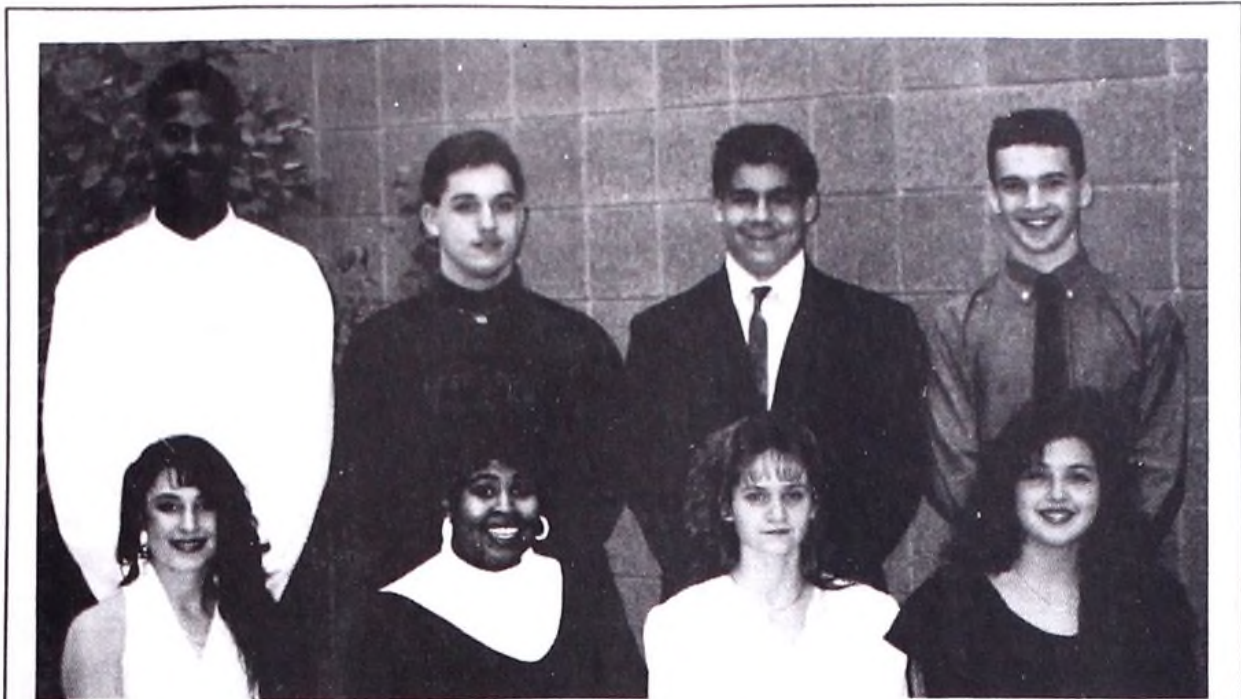

Woman defeats robbery attempt

A St. Louis Park, Minn. woman visiting Romulus Saturday night held on to her purse, despite an effort by a youth to take it from her.

Police said a black male youth about five feet, seven inches tall grabbed at the woman's purse as she was nearing the entrance of the Royce Hotel on Wickham.

The victim fell to the ground from the force of the grabbing effort, police reported, but managed to keep her purse.

A male friend of the woman chased after the youth, but lost him.

King, queen selection

Slaying suspect arraigned

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

A 45-year-old former Romulus man, Daniel Dowling, surprisingly appeared in the city Jan. 26 and surrendered to Wayne County Sheriff's Department officials at Metro Airport in response to a charge of murder.

Dowling allegedly murdered his former live-in-girl friend, Joanne Lincoln, 23, on Aug. 28, 1978.

Lincoln was fatally wounded by a gunshot to the head and died several days later at University Hospital in Ann Arbor.

Dowling, currently of Front Royal, Va., walked into the sheriff's department about 1 p.m. Tuesday with his lawyer, Richard Lustig, according to sheriff officials.

Dowling is charged with open murder and weapons violation by the Wayne County Sheriff's Department. A 9 a.m. Feb. 4 hearing has been scheduled at the 34th District Court before Judge Felix F. Rogalle.

He was arraigned 2 p.m. Jan. 26 before Rogalle and a $20,000 cash bond was set.

Dowling, who was arraigned in Virginia last November, was to face an extradition hearing in Virginia on Feb. 10, according to Virginia authorities.

On Monday, however, local sheriff's officials received a surprise call that Dowling was in the western Wayne County area and would surrender at 1 p.m. Tuesday.

The shooting occurred in an apartment Dowling and Lincoln shared in a complex at Middlebelt and Ecorse Roads. The building is no longer standing.

Sexual disease funds shrinking

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

With AIDS education funds drying up, the Romulus High School's Health Center director asked the Romulus School Board for an additional $6,000 in funds Monday night to complete this year's Teens for AIDS Prevention group program.

Kate Conway, director of the Romulus Adolescent Health Center, sought and was granted $5,000 from the School Board to open the program in September. She stated at the time she had three possible funding sources to pick up the cost of the program mid-school year.

through and I have no additional funds to continue the program."

The Health Center has begun training 20 high school students, who will be ready to go into classrooms and do other presentations by Jan. 25, Conway explained.

Some of the peer educators last year are serving again this year, she explained. The TAP coordinator, Linda Bowman, has been working with the students since November.

Conway said she prepared a "barebones" budget that includes stipends of $35 per month for participating students and for 10 hours per week of work by Bowman.

"This does not include anything else, i.e. no mileage, materials, printing etc," Conway said.

She explained that an additional $6,000 would be needed to complete this year. "Obviously, we will not begin this program next school year without definite full funding."

Conway also supplied a letter from Randall S. Pope, chief of the HIV- AIDS prevention and intervention section of the State Department of Public Health.

Pope stated "I sincerely regret to inform you that the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention did not approve continuation of these projects in 1993.

"The promises for leadership and increased funding under the new Clinton administration seems real," he concluded.

The School Board expressed strong support for the project, but tabled Conway's request while at the same time asking for a financial breakdown on the cost needs for the continuation of the program.

back into the offices from time to time.

Rev. J.D. Landis, pastor of the Community United Methodist Church of Romulus, said he disagrees with the Clinton effort.

Landis, who was one of the key pro-life speakers at a Jan. 17 rally at Kennedy Square in Detroit, said unrestricted abortions are "irresponsible" since they do nothing to solve the problems women have prior to and after abortions.

Our group works with more than 1,000 women a year and helps them get their life back in order, Landis said.

"Saying abortion is the answer to women's problems," Landis said, "is not being straight forward. If definitely is not the solution to the women's problems and actually just places a social band-aid on the deep wound in a person's life.

"Providing free and unrestricted abortions turns us into callous rather than compassionate persons," he concluded.

Meanwhile Shawn Newhouse, director of the Pregnancy Counseling Center of Ypsilanti that services the Romulus area, said "we are saddened by the fact the President Clinton has excluded unborn Americans from the human community only 48 hours after his inauguration, in which he began his administration with calls for tolerance and unity among Americans.

Providing free and unrestricted abortions turns us into callous rather than compassionate persons.
- Rev. J.D. Landis

"The symbolism was no doubt deliberate, and it can only dismay those who are troubled by the spectacle of 1.5 million abortions each year in the U.S.," Newhouse said.

"Some 30,000 of these abortions are performed each year in Michigan," she continued.

"The Pregnancy Counseling Center is working to give women with crisis pregnancies accurate information about fetal development, abortion and alternatives. This work is even more important in light of President Clinton's actions."

Young man's family overjoyed

By PATRICIA BROWN
ANP News Editor

Friends and family of Jeff Elkins found themselves shedding tears of joy Friday night, after the missing John Glenn High School graduate called his father telling him he was alright.

Elkins hadn't been seen since Dec. 23, when he left his uncle's home in Dansville, Mich. bound for his father's home in Westland to celebrate Christmas. When Elkins didn't arrive, family and friends launched a tri-state search that occupied most of their time until Friday.

"I was cooking up at Malarkey's Pub and my mom and dad came in to tell me," said Paul Husak, the organizer of the search. "They handed me a flyer that had found where it had said missing. There was a little smiley face on it and my mom had written he's okay on it."

Husak found it difficult to describe the way he felt when he learned that Elkins was alive and well.

"I couldn't believe it," Husak said. "I was shocked."

Elkins, who called his father from Seattle, Wash., told friends and family members that he needed to get away and chose to leave without telling anyone because he was suffering from personal problems, according to Husak.

"He just needed to get away," Husak said. "There were things that bothered him that we didn't know about.

Water rate hike planned

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

A new set of water and sewer ordinance amendments that would include automatic annual rate hikes (unless objected to by the Romulus City Council) will be up for a final vote at 7:30 p.m. next Monday.

The amendments were introduced Monday night in an attempt to have the city meet state Department of Natural Resources mandates, or else the city has been threatened with state grant cutoffs.

Mayor Beverly McAnally has warned that the many infrastructure enhancements hoped for in Romulus in coming years could be strongly aided financially by state and national grants.

Without such outside financial help, she said, some may have to be tabled and that could seriously impact the city's economic growth plan.

The B plan for the ordinance changes was successfully introduced by a 5-2 council vote Monday, with Councilmen Ellis Pennington and Jimmie Raspberry opposed.

Pennington said that passage of the B plan (with automatic rate hikes) would tie the hands of future councils. Raspberry objected because of the many new costs that taxpayers already will face this year, including a fire fighter millage hike request.

He urged that city residents turn out at Monday night's meeting and speak out on the water-sewer hike issue.

Councilman Noah "Pete" Bergeron charged that the reason Romulus is in a water-sewer cost crisis is because such rate hikes were not passed in the past years and the costs had to come out of the general fund.

"We've been subsidizing water and sewer users for years," Bergeron said. "We need to pass on that cost to the consumer like the DNR asks. As far as future administrations trying to pad that cost, it will be easy for alert city council members to detect."

He also said the water and sewer hikes will be minimal, probably about $3 a month or so.

Councilman William Wadsworth complained "we have the cup, but they (Detroit Water and Sewer Commission) have the spigot. The rates will not go down...we have no choice. Do we want to wait until they turn off our water?"

Mayor Pro Tem Mary Ann Banks stated "I don't want my taxes to go up either, but we need to act."

High school staff will be honored

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

The Senior Class of Romulus Senior High School will be treating their teachers, administrators and support staff to a catered "appreciation luncheon" this Friday to thank them for nearly four years of service.

Gail Fraley, senior class advisor, said 100 handwritten invitations were sent out to guests for the tribute meal and more than 75 have already replied favorably.

The letters initiated by class chairperson Mara Tolbert included the following paragraph. "This (luncheon) is given in honor of you, who have worked so hard to prepare us for our futures. Your work and time is greatly appreciated."

The letters were composed on Jan. 5 and were signed by Tolbert.

"The seniors said rather than have a rushed tribute in the midst of their final month on campus later this year," Fraley said, "they decided to take funds from their own treasury and honor the teachers and others this Friday."

The class has asked Chuck Ustzics of the school district food program to cater the meal in the school cafeteria (the old gym) from noon to 1 p.m. Friday.

The senior class members themselves will serve as waiters and waitresses for the luncheon, Fraley said.

Late next month, the class of 1993 will also offer a tribute breakfast to Romulus senior citizens.

Fraley said the senior citizen breakfast will be conducted on Feb. 23 for the second year in a row. The meal was first conducted last year and met with such a warm feeling being expressed by the senior citizens, the class of 1993 decided to provide the service again.

School buses with a number of high school senior helpers will assist the older residents in and out of the buses both at the Romulus Senior Center and the high school.

There were things that bothered him that we didn't know about.
- Paul Husak

There weren't any symptoms or any signs to let us know he was having problems.

"One of the big problems that contributed to why he left was because he lost communication from friends and family," Husak said.

Elkins moved from Westland to Dansville in November.

After Elkins didn't arrive in Westland, a group of high school friends immediately established a headquarters and began circulating flyers throughout Michigan, Indiana and Ohio, according to Husak.

He also stated that he was unaware of the search efforts. Saturday

It wasn't until last weekend when Husak actually talked to his friend that he believed he was alright.

The first time I heard his voice, I felt my heart pull," Husak said. "We talked about a lot of stuff and we laughed."

Elkins mother flew to Seattle Saturday to meet with her son.

"His mom filled him in on everything that was going on here," Husak said. "I don't think he thought anyone was looking for him. He's very thankful and I told him not to be embarrassed about anything and people are happy he is living."

Elkins was expected to begin his cross-country trip to Michigan Tuesday, according to Husak.

"He said he was going to take the long way home and drive through California," Husak said.

So far friends and family members are planning two parties for Elkins. They hope to first have a private party and then a public party to thank all of the people who contributed to the search.

Romulus teacher challenges sportscaster

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

A six-month old challenge to play basketball against a one-armed Romulus Senior High School teacher early in February has been accepted by daring Don Shane, popular sportscaster with Channel 7, WXYZ.

Shane informed Romulus Alumni Director Marge Bergman that he will show up for the 15-minute face off against American Government teacher Harry Willnus at 1:30 p.m. Feb. 4.

The basketball competition will be part of the week-long festivities at the school to help spur alumni member sign ups, Bergman said.

Willnus said he had his written challenge sent to Channel 7 sometime last spring.

Shane called back just before Christmas to accept the challenge, Willnus said. The only confusion will be whether it will be a "one-on-one" confrontation that Willnus prefers, or a "HORSE" shoot out that Shane apparently is opting for.

Shane, who accepts various challenges from community reps, earlier had competed in a HORSE competition with Detroit Pistons star Dennis Rodman. That type of encounter has both players shooting various baskets, with letters spelling horse being assessed for missed shots that the competitor had earlier made, Willnus explained.

Whichever style match is finally decided upon, Willnus explained, will be video-taped and shown on television.

Willnus, who has taught at Romulus High School for 32 years, regularly plays basketball twice a week with his peers at the school district.

He also works part-time as a sociology professor at Eastern Michigan University.

"I've played basketball for 47 years," Willnus said, "35 of them have been one-handed."

After he lost his arm as a young man, Willnus thought his basketball career, composed mostly of pick-up games, was over.

But a top college basketball player challenged him to get re-involved. "I didn't even know how to pick up a basketball off the floor with one hand at the time," he admitted candidly. "But slowly I began fooling around and finally realized I could do it."

Willnus considers himself a fair basketball shooter and leaves reports on his defensive skills to his opponents.

Asked if Bergman would appear in a cheerleader outfit, Willnus laughed and said "I just asked her and she has declined."

Lunch treats

Randi LaDouceur, a fifth-grader at Tyler Elementary School, enjoys the pot pies served in the school cafeteria. Students who want to be included in the lunch series may send their photo, name, grade, school and favorite lunch item to the Belleville Enterprise, 116 Fourth St., Belleville, Mich. 48111.

Class votes to graduate at complex

The graduation class of 1993 of Romulus Senior High School has voted to be the last class to have commencement exercises at Crisler Arena.

The Romulus Community School Board members allowed seniors this year to make the decision regarding the location of graduation ceremonies. The seniors could have chosen to be the last class at Crisler Arena or the first to have ceremonies inside the new athletic complex at Romulus High School.

All future graduation ceremonies will be in the complex.

Wayne Winterfest breezes into town

By MARGO DEWEY
ANP Feature Editor

The spectacular Wayne Winterfest Ice Show will be sliding into the Wayne Community Center for residents at 7 p.m. Jan. 29, and this year the list of talented champions seems endless.

Headlining the production this year will be world professional figure skating champions Scott Williams and Charlene Wong, according to Janis Rychlinski, skating director for the Wayne parks and recreation.

"This will be a two-hour show with a 20-minute intermission," Rychlinski said. "We plan to showcase as much of the Wayne talent as we can."

Wong is a U.S. Open professional champion, four-time national silver medalist of Canada, five-time world competitor and two-time Olympian.

Williams is a current U.S. Open champion, world professional champion, U.S. national silver medalist and junior world champion.

Besides Wong and Williams, the star extravaganza also includes: the Bowling Green Ohio Falconettes Precision Team; Wyandotte Adult Precision Team; Justin Dekarek and Sherry Whitney representing Detroit Skaters; Scott Driscoll; Steven (Detroit Skate Club) and Danielle (Garden City Skate Club) Hartsell; Carrie Wolak representing Plymouth Figure Skating Club; Dan Hollander representing St. Clair Shores Skating Club; Dearborn Crystallettes; Charles Butler representing southwest Michigan skaters and Jessica Joseph representing Detroit Skate Club; Stephanie Olive and Julianna Szabo representing Skating Club of Wayne; Aaron Anderson and Skip Anderson representing Wayne ISIA; Lisa's Gals representing the Great Lakes; Wayne Jazzers and Jodi Mason and Tommy James from Wayne.

The Winterfest Ice Show has been entertaining residents for more than 10 years, according to Rychlinski.

Individuals or groups interested in attending the event can purchase tickets at the Wayne Community Center. Cost is $5 for adults and $3.50 for students and seniors. Group tickets of 20 or more will receive a discount.

Children 5 years old or younger will be admitted free of charge.

Most eligible singles in area sought

We know they're out there. We've seen them and admit to having cast a few lustful or at least curious glances their way. They are men and women, of any age, who always seem to catch the eye, and the heart, of the opposite sex. You know the type. No matter where or when, they can always find a date, often too many dates.

We'd like to meet them and introduce these "most desirable" singles to our readers. The qualifications are simple. They must be single, reside in our circulation area and someone has to nominate them.

Our expert panel of judges will select the winners by the number of entries received for individuals, although we are often swayed by the quality of writing in entries. A photo of the nominee would be helpful, but is not essential.

Got it?

Cancellation of bus order haunts city officials

By PATRICIA BROWN
ANP News Editor

The controversial purchase of a Senior Resources Department touring bus is haunting Westland officials and residents.

A lawsuit which could cost the city up to $60,000 has been filed by the manufacturers of the proposed bus, the Hoe-kstra Trucking Co.

More than a year ago, Westland City Council members approved a $75,000 donation for the purchase of a touring bus for senior citizens who attend the Westland Friendship Center. The additional $75,000 was collected by the senior citizens through fundraising activities and by donations from area residents and businesses.

The cost of the bus could have topped $200,000, but all costs in excess of $150,000 were to be collected by senior citizens, according to city officials.

City Council President Chuck Pickering was not surprised by the lawsuit.

"They claim that they and their suppliers went through expenses due to them expecting to build the bus," Pickering said. "They expended dollars, time and effort, when we canceled the bus order."

The order was canceled due to a dispute that arose among council members concerned that the bus would not meet the specifications of the newly implemented federal Americans with Disabilities Act.

Council members met Tuesday evening in closed session to discuss the pending lawsuit.

"To a certain degree we believe what they say is true," Pickering said. "What they are asking for is more than we want to pay."

Pickering believes city officials will be able to reach an out-of-court settlement with the manufacturer of the bus.

He also intends to seek a recommendation from the city administration and Mayor Robert Thomas.

"You want a recommendation from administration, but the council members will decide what we would agree to as far as a settlement goes," Pickering said.

Westland City Attorney Angelo Plakas has been in contact with officials from the manufacturing company on several occasions, Pickering said. The council president was not surprised and even expected a lawsuit regarding the canceled contract.

"Our city attorney has been in contact with their representative even before it became a lawsuit," Pickering said. "They were awarded the bid and had proceeded with construction and we were still looking at the possibility of buying a larger bus to make room for more seats that would have been lost because of the lift."

Thomas does not believe the lawsuit will be a long process.

"They haven't settled on an exact number yet," Thomas said. "I think the initial request was for $50,000 to $60,000."

"I can tell you that it will be settled for less than that," the mayor added. "They are still beating the numbers back and forth and negotiating, but our attorney has a maximum number that he knows he can go to."

Thomas said Friday afternoon that he wouldn't be surprised if the two sides would agree on an amount by Monday.

"I don't think it is something that will be dragged out," Thomas said.

At one point, city officials even considered purchasing the bus to use for other community groups in the city.

"When it came down to it, there did not seem to be enough uses for the city to purchase the bus and subsidize it with a driver and insurance," Pickering said.

Cost-cutting plan gains approval in Westland

By PATRICIA BROWN
ANP News Editor

A new cost-cutting pay plan for city directors was approved by members of the Westland City Council Tuesday evening. Only two council members Ken Mehl and Tom Brown voted against the pay plan.

Westland Mayor Robert Thomas asked members of the City Council to approve a salary package for directors that could save the city approximately 15 percent of insurance premiums each year.

The plan also included an salary increase up to 4 percent if the mayor chooses and a pay freeze for 1994.

Council members were concerned with a proposed two-day increase in vacation time and a stipulation allowing directors to receive pay in lieu of unused vacation.

Currently directors receive 25 vacation days, according to Thomas. The mayor asked that those days be extended to 27.

"It seems that every year we go through the same foolishness with this benefits package," Mehl said. "I don't think we should increase the number of vacation days for anybody. Industry is in many cases decreasing instead of increasing."

Mehl was not in favor of the increase in vacation days, but he also admitted that the pack-

Conference nominees named

Current officers of the Conference of Western Wayne (CWW) have been nominated to serve second terms on the board.

Nominated to serve the 18-community planning group are Chairman Chris Johnson of Northville, Vice Chairman Robert Bennett of Livonia, Secretary Tom Yack of Canton Township, Treasurer Jim Kelly of Redford Township and Beverly McAnally, chairman emeritus.

age would benefit the city.

"This package, as it sits today, is one of the best around," Mehl said.

Council member Terri Reighard-Johnson was also concerned about the extended vacation days.

"I don't have a problem with the 4-percent increase, because the mayor has the right to use his own discretion when handing out raises," Reighard-Johnson said.

Reighard-Johnson struggled with the additional vacation days.

"Industry-wide the maximum is going to revert to 20 days a year," Reighard-Johnson said. "Corporations can't make it. I realize we're not a corporation, but a lot of our citizens work for corporations and they are paying for these days."

Council members agreed to allow employees to take 27 vacation days each year, but they won't be able to bank any days and they will only be allowed to buy back five days each year.

Overall, Thomas' pay plan was met with approval from members of the city council.

"We put together a pretty tough pay plan," Thomas said. "We're hoping we can get the rest of the unions in the city to follow us."

"If we can't get other units in the city to follow, we will be back trying to recoup some of those losses," the mayor added.

Thomas has proposed that directors who aren't at the top of the pay scale be allowed up to a 4-percent increase this year and no increase in 1994.

"Those receiving the maximum would have no raise at all," he said. "We have about four people who are at the top of the scale."

There are 24 directors and the average director is currently receiving 93 percent of the maximum allowance, according to Thomas.

Most council members expressed approval of the mayor and his employees taking the lead in controlling spending in the city.

"You have to start at the top with negotiations," said council member Sharon Scott. "We have other contracts coming up. The directors have to take the lead if we expect other employee groups to do the same."

Scott was impressed with the cost reduction in health insurance that the mayor's plan offered.

Overall, Johnson and Scott agreed that the plan would benefit the city.

"I think they are giving up more in the package as a whole," Reighard-Johnson said.

The second portion of the plan focuses on the health care benefits offered.

"We've proposed a 15-percent reduction in insurance premiums," Thomas said. "That does relate to some pretty considerable dollars."

What does Clinton have that Kennedy and Reagan didn't... and that you can get if you act quickly...

The World's First Presidential Inaugural Coin

Obverse features a smiling portrait of President Clinton along with a portion of the Presidential Oath, promising to "protect and defend the Constitution."

Reverse is an heraldic American Eagle surrounded by inscription "President Bill Clinton, Vice President Al Gore, Inaugurated January 20, 1993."

Only $5 each while they last!

Historic First

In 1789, George Washington had special commemorative buttons sewn onto his inaugural coat. For Thomas Jefferson's swearing in ceremony, inaugural medals were issued for the first time. And now, to commemorate the inauguration of President Bill Clinton, coins have been issued for the first time.

Presidential inauguration souvenirs are among the most popular American collectibles and this historic first is sure to become one of the most talked about commemoratives of the decade!

Low Mintage; Big Demand...

With only a limited edition of 50,000 there's sure to be more demand than supply considering that 43 million Americans voted for Mr. Clinton. And when you consider the number of collectors, regardless of political persuasion, it's easy to see why these will be snapped up in a hurry.

Low Price, Big Value

Coins of similar historic significance, quantity and rarity often sell for up to $10.00... but because we want as many Americans as possible to share in what President Clinton has called a "Peoples Inauguration," the issue price has been set at only $5.00 each. Order several as keepsakes for your children or grandchildren.

Certificate Signed By Prince

Each historic President Clinton Inaugural Coin comes in a presentation holder with an Authorization Certificate signed by Prince Leonard.

Special Collectors Bonus:

Free Clinton Trading Card

If you mention this ad with your order you will receive a first edition, full color President Clinton (with wife Hillary) trading card in protective sleeve, with each inaugural coin ordered.

Westland names official city newspaper

By PATRICIA BROWN
ANP News Editor

The Westland Eagle was once again named the official newspaper of the city by members of the Westland City Council.

The official newspaper serves as the designated publication in which legal notices are placed.

The Westland Eagle was the low bidder submitting a price of $5.67 per column inch. The Westland Observer, the only other bidder, submitted a quote of $6.30 per column inch.

Councilman Glenn Anderson cast the only dissenting vote on the motion.

Anderson claimed the circulation was one reason he could not support the motion. He also stated that he based his decision on circulation numbers used last year.

"We weren't provided circulation numbers this year," he said.

This year the circulation numbers made available by officials from the Certified Audit of Circulations, a New Jersey auditing firm which audited both newspapers, indicated that The Westland Observer has a circulation of 12,459 in Westland and The Westland Eagle has a circulation of 12,442 in Westland, a difference of only 17 papers.

Wednesday afternoon Anderson explained his reasons for not voting in favor of the motion.

"I'm not convinced that the circulation is high enough," Anderson said. "The Observer doesn't come far enough to the south end of the city and the Eagle doesn't come far enough

Sitter charged in assault

By PATRICIA BROWN
ANP News Editor

The fate of a 25-year-old Westland man accused of sexually assaulting an 8-year-old Westland girl last year could be known by next week.

Robert Ray West is accused of assaulting the girl while he was babysitting Feb. 15, 1992, according to Sgt. Laura Moore, of the Westland Police Department Detective Bureau.

West is currently on trial before Recorder's Court Judge J. Phillip Jourdon.

"He is charged with seven counts of criminal sexual conduct for numerous acts involving penetration," Moore said. "There were several acts involving penetration that occurred on the same date as far as we know there weren't any other dates."

The girl didn't tell anyone for days after the incident occurred, according to Moore.

"He told her he would not be her friend anymore if she told anyone," Moore said. "He also told her that she would get in trouble if she told anyone."

West was released after his arraignment last year on a $10,000 cash surety bond. If he is found guilty of any of the charges he could face a maximum sentence of life in prison, according to Moore.

"Any charge of first-degree criminal sexual conduct carries a maximum life sentence," Moore said.

West appeared in court Friday morning and was expected back in court tomorrow.

Riverboat cruises to return in June

Cruises on Belleville Lake will be available in June when the Princess Laura riverboat docks in Van Buren Township.

"The beautiful Princess Laura will once again cruise Belleville Lake between June 10 and 20," said Van Buren Township Recreation Director Mike Long. "Guests are invited to come out for the luncheon or dinner cruises and view the sites along Belleville Lake while they dine. Midnight cruises also will be available."

Information about the cruises is available by calling the Van Buren Township Parks and Recreation office at 699-8921.

responsibility with which the voters entrusted them."

"As for Mr. Anderson's concerns about the circulation numbers, I would suggest that a difference of 17 newspapers would not appear to merit the spending of the additional taxpayers' funds, particularly in this economy," Willett said.

Anderson also stated that he wanted the official newspaper available in more areas so that job positions advertised would be circulated in more communities.

"While I fully appreciate Mr. Anderson's comments and understand his motives, it would seem more appropriate to offer municipal jobs to residents of the city prior to seeking candidates outside this area. If, of course, there are no competent candidates, then advertisements in specialty publications might be in order," Willett said.

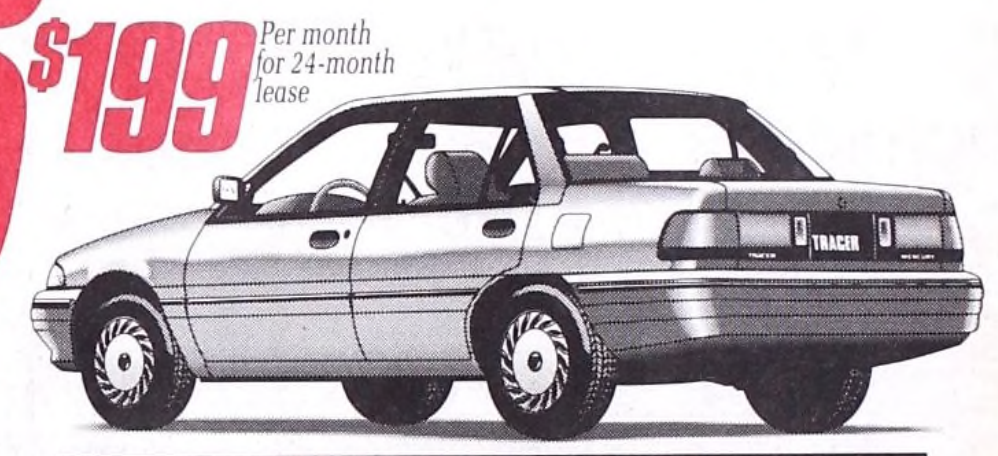

"Obviously, based on economics alone, the council acted in the best interest of the city," she concluded.

Martin 'awesome' at Western Wayne

Glenn swimmer is zeroing in on state 100-yard backstroke record

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Westland John Glenn's sensational swimmer Matt Martin turned in a record-shattering performance in the 100-yard backstroke Saturday at the Western Wayne Swimming & Diving Invitational.

Martin, a senior, broke a 22-year record in the backstroke when he hit the wall in 51.39 seconds. He shattered the old Wayne mark of 55.7 established in 1970 by Dearborn's Paul Foster.

With that incredible effort,

Martin is now on the threshold of the state mark for that event, which is 51.30.

"Everyone in the pool was cheering him on," said Wayne coach Randy Ferguson. "Matt was just incredible. Even awesome. He is one heck of a swimmer. And I felt that the fans something that they will never forget."

The Glenn swimmer was one of two double winners in the winter prep classic. He also finished first for the 200-yard freestyle, covering the distance in 1:45.8.

Wyandotte's Randy Rumley

also posted two victories. He led the field in the 200-yard individual medley (2:15.2) and also won the gold for the 100-yard butterfly (1:00.4).

Wyandotte, with seven firsts out of a possible 12, also won the team championship. The downriver powerhouse amassed 368 points to coast to the victory.

Wayne finished a far-second with 184, followed by Dearborn Heights Annapolis (176), Redford Thurston (173), John Glenn (153), Allen Park (132), Belleville, which didn't bring a complete team had 96, Robichaud 31 and Garden City with 30.

Wayne produced two gold medal winners. Matt Ferguson, the coach's brother, captured a first in the grueling 500-yard freestyle. The 14-year-old sophomore was clocked in the winning time of 5:22.7.

Wayne's Ray Blair took the 100-yard breaststroke in 1:05.4.

Glenn nosed out Wayne at the wire for the gold in the 200-yard medley relay. The Rockets had the foursome of Martin, Freese, Belliner and Ramesbottom who combined for a 1:50.6. The Zebras had the second-best time (1:50.9) with David Terklau, Dan Barnett, Ray Blair and Ferguson.

Barnett picked up a pair of silvers for his performances in the butterfly and the breaststroke.

Wyandotte divers dominated the boards. The Bears placed 1-2-3 with Mike Sampson (342.2), Chris Beeker (334.6) and Derrick McDonald (332.8).

Wyandotte also swept the 200 and the 400 yard freestyle relay events.

Wayne overcomes slow start

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Undefeated Wayne is apparently living dangerously in its bid to reclaim the final Wolverine "A" Conference basketball crown.

With the rest of the pack trying to catch the Zebras, coach Chuck Henry slipped but did not fall Tuesday against Fordson and, on Friday, the team had its problems but managed to shake off a winless Southgate Anderson.

Anxiously awaiting for a Wayne slip is Belleville, which remains in the title hunt. The Tigers, with only one league loss to their record, rattled Monroe, 60-43, behind Michael Foley's 19 points, to stay one-game out of first place.

Belleville will get a second shot at Wayne on Feb. 19. The rematch, however, is at Wayne.

Wayne looked anything but a champ last week. They had to struggle to beat Fordson and Anderson.

"We came out flat against Fordson," said Henry. "They (Fordson) didn't waste any time capitalizing on our mistakes."

Wayne fell behind by 11 points and trailed 20-9 at the end of the first period as Fordson's Ali Barkat, a center, tossed in eight of his 16 points to jump-start the Tractors. The Zebras managed to come back thanks to a balanced scoring attack - seven different Wayne players scored - to tie and then go up by one, 29-28, at intermission.

Then, 5-8 senior guard Donetz Prewitt took over for the defending champs. He scored 14 of his 17 points, including two treys, in the second half gave the Zebras a 10-point cushion for three (54-44). The Zebras managed to hang on for the key win.

Joining Prewitt in the double-figure scoring column were Jason Overton, who scored 11 points and collected 12 rebounds; Bruce Calhoun, who also had 11, and Rod Hardison, who sank 10 points.

The free throw line, where Wayne sank 19 of 29 as compared to Fordson's 13 of 17, also played a free role in the champs' ninth consecutive victory.

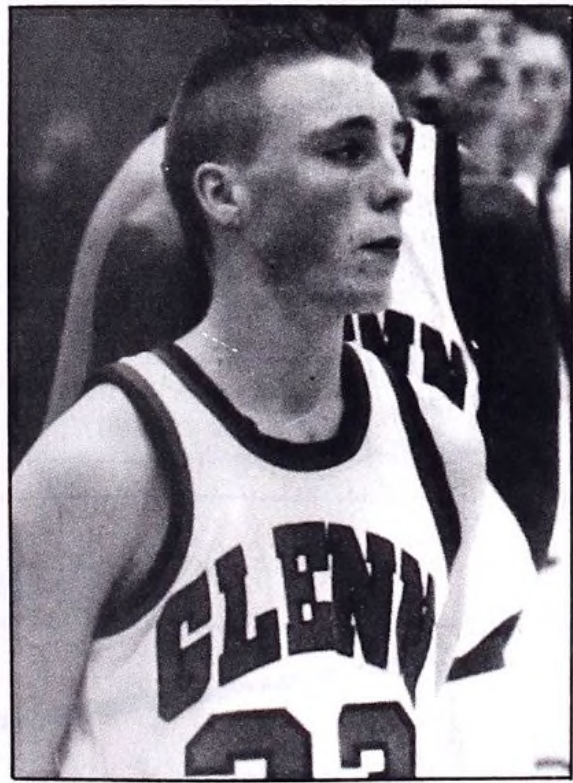

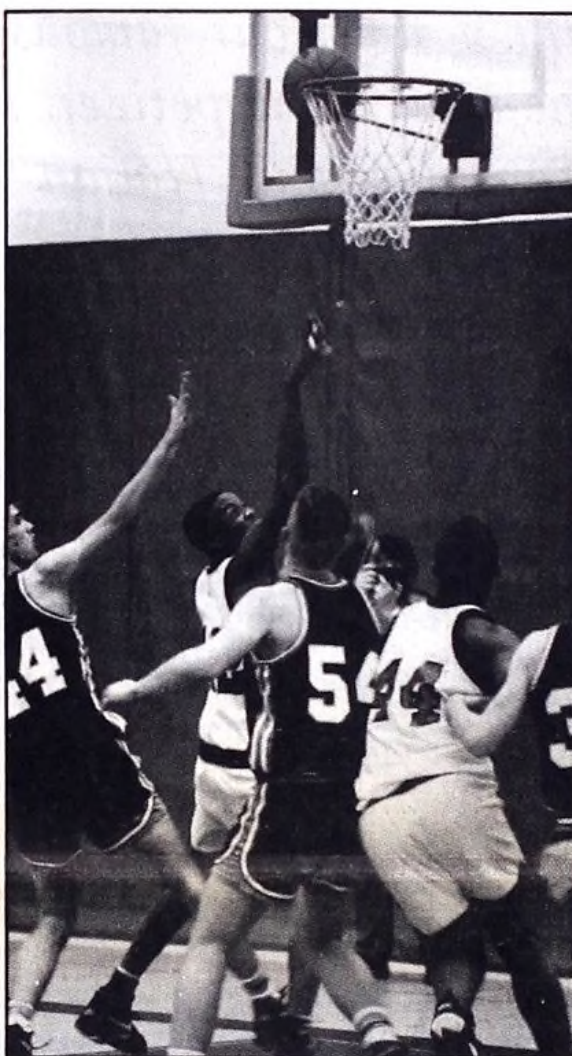

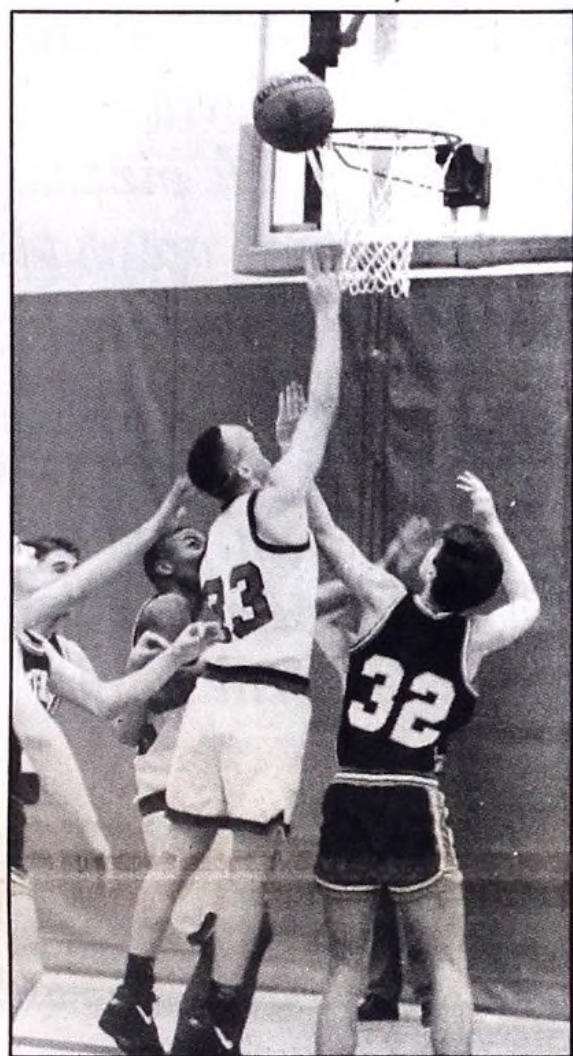

Wayne also had problems winning No. 10 at Southgate's expense. Are the Zebras living on borrowed time?

"We are playing uninspired ball," Henry admitted. "And, yes, we're going to have a long talk with these kids."

Southgate, which has not won a conference game this year, kept it close right to the final whistle. The Cougars trailed by one (17-16) for one and only by five (37-32) at midway.

Wayne outscored their rivals 20-17 and 19-17 the final two periods.

Wayne began the second-round of conference competition Tuesday night and placed its 10-0 record on the block when the Zebras hosted Monroe.

Westland John Glenn's Rockets are on a roll as coach Mike Schuette's cagers have strung together seven straight wins after dropping their season opener to Ypsilanti. Glenn's latest victim, division opponent, Livonia Stevenson, fell 64-51 Friday night. In that game, Rocket launcher Aaron Scheffer (above left, No. 33) gets a tap in as Spartan Steve Harrison (32) stands helplessly by. In the above photo, bodies clash for the rebound that remains airborne and, at the left, Glenn's Steve Kleitch (23) prepares to enter the action. 7 straight victories Glenn has that winning touch

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Ken Taylor tossed in 10 of his game-high 19 points in the first period to stake Westland John Glenn to a 20-10 lead and a 64-51 victory Friday night over Western Lakes Conference rival, Livonia Stevenson.

It is Glenn's seventh consecutive basketball victory after the Rockets dropped their season opener to Ypsilanti.

"I felt we were able to effectively utilize our center (Taylor) in the early stages," said first-year coach Michael Schuette. "Also, our defense played an exceptional game in the first half - we held them to 20 points."

Stevenson jumped out to an early 5-0 lead, but a three-pointer by Aaron Scheffer and back-to-back baskets by Taylor erased the deficit and gave the Rockets the lead for good.

The Westlanders parlayed their 10-point cushion into a 33-20 halftime advantage, the two divisional rivals exchanged baskets evenly the next two periods. Each team put 11 and 20 points on the scoreboard in the final two frames.

I felt we were able to effectively utilize our center (Taylor) in the early stages. Also, our defense played an exceptional game in the first half - we held them to 20 points.

- Michael Schuette

Taylor led all scorers with 19. The 6-6 senior center also collected 14 rebounds.

On Tuesday, Scheffer drilled in 10 of his 12 points in the first quarter as the Rockets crushed out-of-league rival, Taylor Center, 71-58, for victory No. 6. Three other Rockets also scored in double figures: Tony Goins had 14, while John Miller added 12 and Taylor finished with 11.

Taylor's Jason Bartos turned in with a team-high 21 points.

After taking on Livonia Churchill Tuesday night, the Glenn turns its sights on a capable Farmington team. The two conference opponents will meet Friday in Farmington.

Controversial calls hurt Romulus cagers

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

A couple of controversial calls in the fourth period that triggered a technical foul on the coach helped pave the way for the demise of demise at Temperance Bedford Friday night.

Outscored 17-8 in the last period, the Eagles blew a 56-52 lead and fell 69-64 for their third setback in 10 starts this season.

Leading by as much as six points with two minutes remaining in the game, Romulus was offered a rash of free throws when Bedford fouled to gain possession of the ball.

"I felt those fouls were deliberate. In fact, they pounded us," said Romulus coach Chris Molloy. "And I protested."

The protest resulted in a technical foul to the Romulus coach, and helped Bedford turn the tide.

The Eagles grabbed a 18-16 first-period lead thanks to the efforts of Yancy Yharborough and Jeff Smith but the Mules came back as the Eagles had problems with 6-9 center Jim Daniels. Daniels led a second-period surge that moved the hosts to a 38-32 lead at intermission.

In the third, Romulus regained its poise with the help of Rob Thompson, who came off the bench and scored all of his eight points in that stanza.

Daniels again came back and finished off the Eagles with a game high 27 points.

"He played an excellent game against us," said Molloy,

I felt those fouls were deliberate. In fact, they pounded us. And I protested.

- Chris Molloy
Romulus coach

commenting on Daniels' effort. "We couldn't stop him."

Yharborough finished with 11 points and Jeff Smith added 10.

The Mules also had the edge at the free throw line where they cashed in 20 of their 24 shots. Romulus capitalized on 10 of 16 charities.

Romulus picked up its seventh victory Tuesday night at the expense of Taylor Truman. The Eagles jumped out in front 20-8 in the first period and never looked back until that had a 63-39 victory.

Yharborough contributed 14 points and eight rebounds while Daniel Winston counted 10.

On Friday, Romulus will clash with one of the top teams in the Suburban Athletic Conference when the Eagles travel to Highland Park. They should not have had any trouble Tuesday night when they played Taylor Center. The Rams have had their problems this year finding their way into the win column.

Inkster wrestler wins gold at Erie

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Inkster wrestling coach Sam Ellis knew his 103-pounder grappler Andy Melchor would one day surface as a topnotch performer.

That day came last Saturday when Melchor won two matches decisively and went on to capture a gold medal at the 1993 Erie-Mason Invitational.

"Andy wrestled well," said Ellis. "We thought he could win and he did."

Melchor was the only Viking to return home with a medal. Teammate Fred Davis, an outstanding heavyweight who would have been seeded No. 1, is sidelined with bruised ribs and will be out of the lineup for a couple of weeks.

Melchor began his bid for the gold by drawing a first-round bye. He met and turned back Saline's Jason Gall in 1:54 of the second round before clashing with New Boston Huron's Roger Bowman in the finals.

Melchor outlasted his opponent, 8-4, for the gold.

Melchor's performance lifted Inkster to a seventh-place finish in the eight-team field. Woodhaven captured the team championship with 174 points, followed by Wyandotte (164), Saline (130), Riverview (120), New Boston Huron (58), Erie-Mason (38), Inkster (35) and Redford Township Thurston (14).

Inkster also produced two fourth-place finishers. Royal Gaines lost his bid for a third-place medal when Huron's Mike Gregory pinned him in 50 seconds and Clinton Smith, replacing the injured Davis in the Vikings' lineup, was a 2:21 victim to bronze-medalist Jim Downs.

Earlier in the week, Inkster fell 54-22 in its Suburban Athletic Conference opener to Willow Run. Melchor and Davis were not in the Viking lineup. Inkster took four of the weight classes thanks to James Brooke (119), Jay Wiggins (125), Deshaun Williams (160), Reggie Boatwright (171).

Ellis and the Vikings will return to action on Saturday when they travel to the Harper Woods Invitational. They met Oak Park, their second SAC opponent, Tuesday night.

Salem cruises to 9th victory

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Undefeated Plymouth-Salem cruised to its ninth consecutive victory Friday night, crushing Farmington 71-57.

Ranked sixth in the Class A state basketball polls, the Rocks had a 20-point spread over their divisional rivals most of the second half, giving coach Bob Brodie an opportunity to substitute freely.

In fact, it may have been too freely. Farmington managed to close the gap to seven midway in the third period before Salem's James Head and Mike Slone tossed in a couple of baskets to pull their club out of danger.

Salem grabbed a 16-13 lead after one period and bolted to a 37-25 advantage at intermission.

However, Farmington came out in the third period and pounded away at the lead thanks to Scott Menser and Stanley Lewis, who sparked a comeback that dissipated late in the third period.

Head and Slone each scored 20 points for the winners. They shared individual scoring honors. The Falcons got 21 points from Menser and 17 from Lewis.

Salem was scheduled to play Farmington Harrison Tuesday night and will return to Farmington on Friday to play North. North began the week with a 5-4 overall record and a 2-1 conference mark. The Raiders were held to 39 points Friday night by a defense-minded Walled Lake Central team that picked up its ninth successive victory, 51-39.

Central is ranked No. 8 in the Class A state polls.

Incidentally, Central and Salem have a Feb. 5 meeting. That game may decide the Western Lakes Divisional championship and which team will represent the division in the conference championship.

But, then, the two title hopefuls will also have to contend with Westland John Glenn. The Rockets, with seven straight wins, obviously will have a lot to say about who will wear the crown.

Coach Mike Schuette's cagers are scheduled to play Salem on Feb. 12 and Walled Lake Central on Feb. 19. Both crucial games are road games for the Westlanders.

Diabetics And Foot Care

If you are a diabetic, you should be particularly alert to any problems you may be having with your feet. Most foot problems can be treated successfully if you act in time.

As a disease, diabetes tends to cause circulatory problems that affect the feet and legs. It can also cause a loss of feeling in the feet. Infections can start more easily than in the non-diabetic person, and it will probably take longer to cure an infection once it starts.

Diabetics often do not have the ability to feel pain as quickly or intensely as other people, and for that reason injuries to the foot may not be noticed until the condition becomes serious.

Wayne native skates for Kent State

A Wayne skater has broken into the lineup of the Kent State University hockey team.

Jim Mitchell, son of James and Gloria Mitchell of Wayne, is midway through his freshman season of the Kent State ice hockey team. The Golden Flashes are 7-10-1 overall and 4-9-1 in their debut season in the Central Collegiate Hockey Association (CCHA).

Kent defeated Alaska-Anchorage, 4-2, and Michigan State, 2-1, to win the Nissan/JEEP Classic in Anchorage.

Mitchell has seen action in each of Kent's 18 games this season, recording four points on two goals and two assists.

Faygo sparkling water offers refreshing fruity tastes

The 1990s has become a decade of the health conscious society.

Individuals are making choices nowadays which benefit their entire body instead of just their taste buds.

This move for a healthier lifestyle is most evident by a certain beverage which is gaining popularity and is colorless, calorie free, fat free and has almost no sodium.

This wonder drink is water. Sparkling flavored waters, a combination of sparkling mineral water and natural fruit essences, took second place in dollar sales, though the segment tops the category in volume.

Last year gallonage grew 3.9 percent, from 89 million gallons in 1990 to 92.5 million, according to Faygo officials.

Why has water become so popular? Stan Sheridan, Faygo president, attributes the craze to the consumers who are concerned about health and fitness.

"It's the national awareness of health, and the all natural concepts of water," Sheridan said. "People seem to have a real interest today in avoiding calories, and some people are avoiding both the natural sugar sweeteners as well as the artificial sweeteners."

"Somehow the idea of drinking a pure water product, and in our case a carbonated product with a little touch of cherry or grapefruit, appeals to people."

Sheridan said he is not sure there is a large percentage of people drinking water, but his personal observation is that people who do drink the water products, drink them all day.

"They may drink the various water products whether they are exercising on a bike, with dinner or all throughout the day," Sheridan said.

The bottled water industry is divided into four distinct categories: non-sparking water, domestic sparkling water, club soda/seltzer and imports.

The bottled water industry grew nationally by 13 percent to $515 million last year, according to Packaged Facts, a New York market-research firm.

Faygo, one of the Midwest's leading bottlers of soft drinks, sparkling waters and mixers, decided to enter the bottled water industry eight years ago, according to Sheridan.

"We decided to get into this area when we saw the Perrier type products," Sheridan said. "We really got into this particular type of packaging and design about three years ago, and we decided that for this particular type of target audience, which we identified as somewhat upscale, we needed to have packaging that is somewhat different."

"The one thing that is consistent on the packaging is the flying 'F' which stands for Faygo."

Sheridan said white was selected as the dominant packaging color.

"The white base cup on this model was the first used in this country," Sheridan said. "It would seem simple to get one, but it was pretty difficult to get it at that time. The other thing we did that is different is this particular label is small."

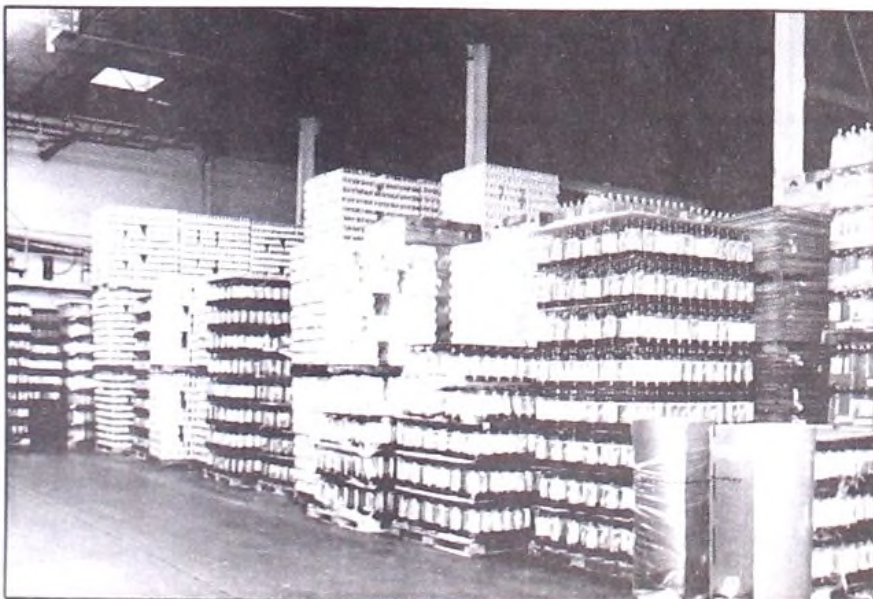

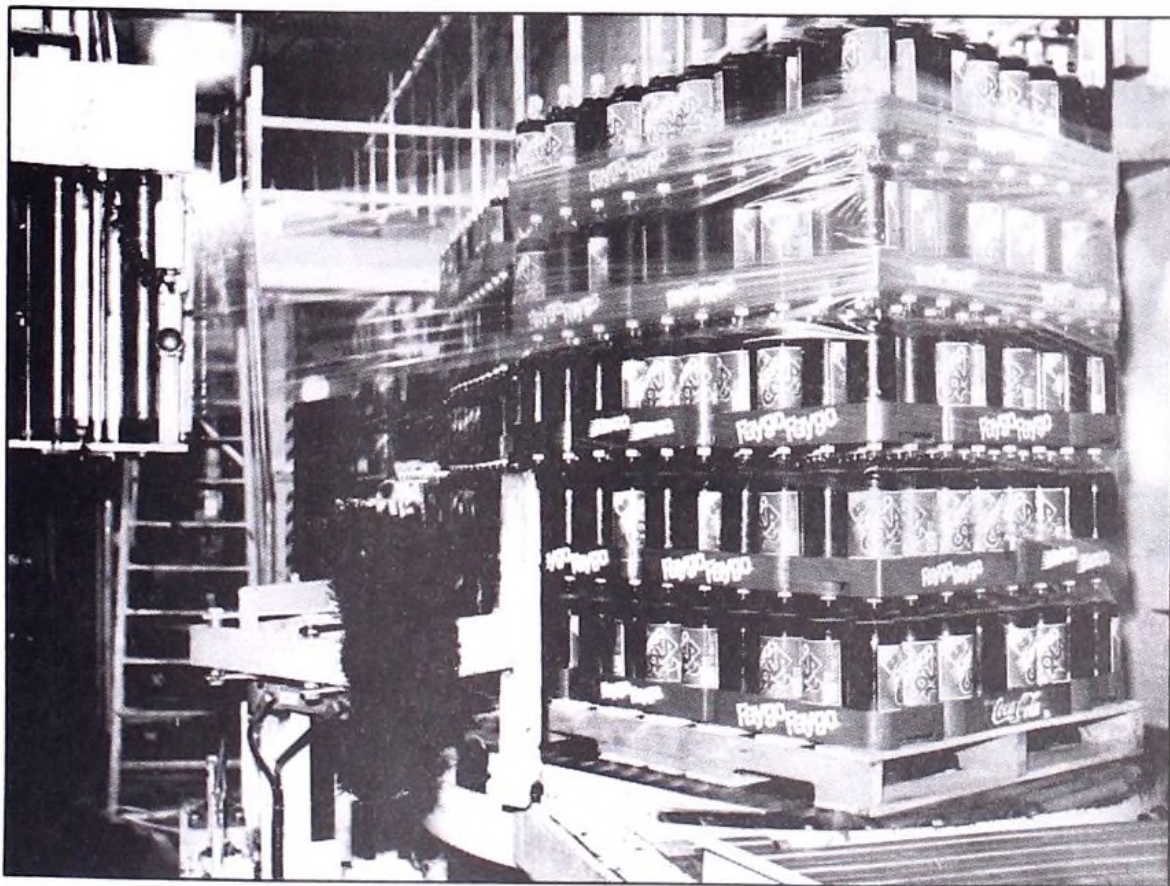

Sheridan said some people may view the smaller label as a cost-cutting measure for Faygo.

"In reality, we decided on the smaller label in order to show more of the product," Sheridan said. "Having a smaller label actually costs more because it's a different size."

"Somehow the idea of drinking a pure water product, and in our case a carbonated product with a little touch of cherry or grapefruit, appeals to people."

- Stan Sheridan
Faygo president

"We have the cup, but they have the spigot," said Romulus Councilman William Wadsworth, referring to the Detroit Water and Sewer Commission, which sets rates for water provided to the city.

Of Note

Former resident charged in slaying

Former Romulus resident, Daniel Dowling, will appear in the 34th District Court at 9 a.m. Thursday to answer charges that he shot and fatally wounded his former live-in girl friend 14 years ago.

Dowling arrived at the Wayne County Sheriff's office at Metro Airport last Tuesday and a short time later was arraigned before Judge Felix Rogalle on open murder and felony weapons charges.

In recent years Dowling has been living in Virginia.

Dowling is accused of shooting Joanne Lincoln, 23, in the head on Aug. 29, 1978, in an apartment complex at Ecorse and Middlebelt Roads. She died two days later at University Hospitals in Ann Arbor. The apartment complex has since been razed.

The murder case had lain somewhat dormant in recent years, but was revitalized in November as "new evidence" reached the local sheriff's department. He was arrested on a Wayne County warrant in Virginia last November.

Wayne resident charged with fraud

A Wayne man was sent to Recorder's Court Jan. 20 on first degree retail fraud charges.

Arthur Maynard waived his examination before 29th District Court Judge James B. Stone. The $10,000 cash bond was continued.

Maynard was arrested by officials from the Wayne Police Department after Wayne police Sgt. Michael Sumeracki identified his vehicle which was allegedly used in a larceny incident at Church's Lumber in Wayne Jan. 2, according to Wayne Police Department Lt. Mel Drews.

Maynard was arraigned before Archbold Jan. 9, and a $10,000 bond was set.

Conference scheduled for Inkster resident

A Jan. 29 calendar conference has been scheduled for an Inkster man on armed robbery charges in Recorder's Court.

Jackson Rupert allegedly robbed the Pizza One establishment on Merriman Road in Wayne Oct. 22, 1992, according to Wayne police Lt. Mel Drews.

"An investigation was conducted involving Romulus and Livonia police," Drews said.

Rupert was arraigned Jan. 6 before 29th District Court Judge Carolyn Archbold and a $10,000 cash bond was set. He was arraigned in Recorder's Court Jan. 25.

Police conduct robbery probe

The Wayne Police Department is investigating an alleged Jan. 22 armed robbery incident at Discount Food Market, 35454 West Michigan Ave.

Police are looking for a white male, 6 feet, weighing 190 pounds. He has short brown hair and a fair complexion, according to Wayne police Lt. Mel Drews.

"The suspect entered the establishment the evening of Jan. 22," Drews said. "A gun was implied but not seen. He took cash and cigarettes."

The suspect fled on foot. Anyone with information on the incident should contact the Wayne Police Department at 721-1414.

Hometown heroes Youth saves child, grandma

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Like a fullback cutting through the line, 18-year-old Johnny Rice Jr. cut through the smoke-filled rooms looking for his neighbors. He realized that the clock was ticking off valuable seconds.

And the life of 4-year-old Tashonda Bennett, her 64-year-old grandmother, and his own counted on how quick he moved.

The house on Florence Street was in flames, the rooms filled with deadly smoke. It was around 4 p.m. on Jan. 25 when Rice and his friend, Dwaine Quinn, were heading to Rice's home on Florence when they spotted people standing around the Bennett house, watching smoke pour out of the one-story structure. They were waiting for the fire engines.

Rice paused only to ask if there was anyone in there.

"When they said 'yes,' I ran to the front door and just went in."

What greeted the 5 feet, 9, 190-pound Robichaud High School fullback, was an ominous stream of dark smoke.

"I spotted the baby, and she looked like she was on fire. I got to her and padded the fire out and rushed her back out the front door," said Rice, who handed the child to some people, he said.

"The young man got these people out just in the nick of time. The woman was showing signs of carbon monoxide poisoning caused by smoke inhalation. They are fortunate he was at the scene when he was."

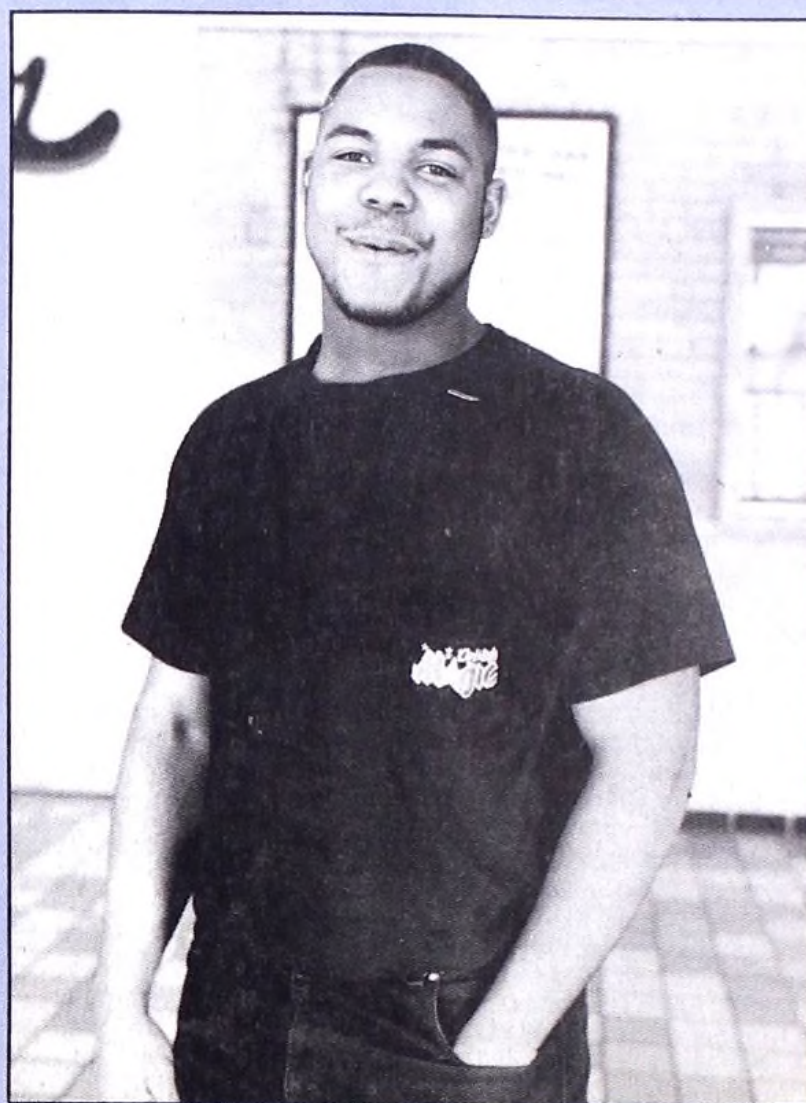

- Victor Boulanger
Inkster Fire Chief

Without hesitation, Rice immediately went back into the inferno. He said Mrs. Bennett was lying in the living room. There was no sign of life.

"She's a small woman and I didn't have any trouble carrying her out," Rice said.

Once outside Rice collapsed. He also was overcome by smoke. All three were rushed to Annapolis Hospital in Wayne. Rice was treated and released, while Tashonda was later transferred to the University of Michigan Burn Center in

2 women warn man asleep in burning house

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER
Belleville City Editor

On Monday morning, Sharon Howie left her Hamilton Street home a little earlier than usual - a move that may have helped to save a neighbor's life.

"I was on my way to work and when I stopped at the corner, I saw the house on Van Buren Street on fire. I pulled my car over and went to the house," said Howie. "I beat on the door, but no one answered."

The house, located at 9519 Van Buren Street, apparently caught fire from the wood-burning fireplace in the living room, causing an estimated $50,000 in damages.

Howie went to the house next-door and called her friend, Peggy Ridner, who has lived in her Van Buren Street home for 21 years.

"I beat on the door again and pounded on the picture window, but I couldn't awaken the man inside," Howie said. "The dog started barking and came to the window, but he still didn't wake up."

Ridner said she knew the homeowner, who worked the midnight shift, had arrived home earlier and was probably asleep. His wife was at

Undercover drug operation nabs cocaine sellers

By PATRICIA BROWN
ANP News Editor

A three-month undercover drug operation has resulted in the arrest of two employees of a Westland bar, according to police.

Police officials from the special investigations division of the Westland Police Department have successfully halted drug dealing at the Token Lounge located near Joy and Middle Belt roads, said Sgt. Michael Gould.

"We made several arrests, and as a matter of fact, we've been buying drugs there for quite some time," Gould said. "We had received many complaints that alcohol was being sold to minors. We also were told that drugs were being sold by employees."

Police actually made the arrests Jan. 19 with the help of other law enforcement agencies. The raid included 20 officers and a dog named Trucker that was used to find cocaine on the premises, according to Gould.

"We had officers from the Westland Police Department, Wayne, Inkster and Garden City," Gould said. "We also had help from the Metropolitan Street Enforcement Team."

Two employees were arraigned last week in the 18th District Court, he said.

The manager of the bar, Ronald Baltrusz, 49, of Livonia, was arraigned on a possession of cocaine charge Friday and was later released on a $2,500 bond, police said.

A second employee, Larry Slusher, 35, of Wyandotte, was arraigned on two counts of delivery cocaine and one count of possession. A $10,000 bond was set.

"At this point, a third employee could be charged pending the outcome of the investigation," Gould said.

Police raided the bar during peak hours. "Even though the establishment was extremely crowded, due to the number of officers we had no problem executing the search warrant," Gould added.

Police seized approximately one-half ounce of cocaine.

Wayne resident dies in tragic home fire

By MARGO DEWEY
ANP Feature Editor

The Wayne Fire Department is conducting an investigation on a tragic fire which claimed the life of a 26-year-old Wayne resident Jan. 26.

Fire officials arrived at 34596 Sims approximately 9:09 p.m., according to Wayne Fire Chief Wayne Bennett.

"Jay Joseph Partin was found dead on arrival," Bennett said. "A burning cigarette was apparently left on a chair and the individual fell asleep."

Partin lived in an apartment at the back of a house on Sims. The homeowners notified the Wayne Fire Department about the blaze.

"The fire was under control within 15 minutes," Bennett said. "We found evidence of a number of cigarettes on the floor."

area. There was no smoke detector in the room, according to Bennett.

"This was an accident, and he apparently died of smoke inhalation," Bennett said. "This provides a very important message to people to make sure they have a smoke detector on every floor of a home."

Partin is survived by: his mother Lucille and father Joseph Partin; sisters Gisele Holman and Cindy Derosa; and niece Shannon McAnally and nephews Roy Hart II and Charles DeRosa.

He was a very outgoing individual who enjoyed spending time with his family, according to Holman.

"He enjoyed fishing and drawing," Holman said. "He worked at Arby's for a little bit. He was hoping to do something with robotics."

Partin is originally from the Detroit area. His sister said he was a dedicated son, brother and worker.

"It's so sad he died at such a young age," Holman said.

Services were conducted for Partin Jan. 28 at the Uht Funeral Home in Westland. Partin was buried Jan. 29 at Cadillac Memorial Gardens in Westland.

Math lesson equals winnings for lottery players

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER
Belleville City Editor

You don't need to be a math whiz to win the lottery, but a knowledge of numbers could increase your chances of becoming a millionaire.

William Atwood of Inkster has already done the mathematical calculations and has written a book based on his research.

Armed with a calculator, an inquisitive mind and a "mission" to improve the odds for lottery players, Atwood outlines how to optimize the ratio of winning numbers to losing numbers in his book, The Lottery Solution.

"I'm teaching people what they don't understand in a foreign language - math is a foreign language to many people," Atwood said. "Some people have told me that there's too much math in the book and others have said there not enough. However, I try to make it as easy to understand as I can. Chapter Five, titled 'Methods That Improve Odds' is the key."

Readers who stumble on a mathematics block before they reach the end of the 103-page book may follow a simple version of Atwood's solution: Don't play the easy pick lottery numbers and use a wide selection of numbers when playing the lottery - 30 separate numbers on a five-line ticket.

"If you duplicate numbers, you are duplicating your chances of having losing numbers in more than one line. If you want to use birth dates or other numbers that are important to you, that's all right. Just be sure to fill in different numbers for the other choices," Atwood said. "Luck still plays a part in winning, but this method of selecting numbers could increase winners by three or four times the present number."

Although Atwood admits that there are occasional big

Inkster resident displays a copy of his new book, "The Lottery Solution," which offers tips to increase the chances of winning. ANP photo by Joan Dyer-Zinner time winners from the easy picks, he believes they are an exception to the rule.

"The myth is that because 90 percent of all lottery winners, win with easy-picks that it the best way to play. However, 90 percent of the tickets sold are easy picks. Therefore, if it was a good method, it would account for more than 90 percent of the winners."

Atwood is not a lottery booster, but he would like to see those who play the game come away with more winnings.

"I'd like to see more winners and more people get their money back, and I'd like to decrease the number of roll-overs (jackpots carried over because there were no winners)," Atwood said.

"Critics say that if there weren't lottery roll-overs, sales would decrease and the state would lose money. I don't worry about that," Atwood said. "Money that is not spent on lottery tickets will be spent elsewhere. The state is not accountable for the money. If it goes into the general fund, we don't know what is happening to it, and if it goes for education, we're not getting much value for our money."

Atwood, who has resided in Inkster since 1969, is guarded about his private life. He revealed that he attended Wayne State University and is a mathematician and engineer in the automotive and aerospace industries. He also once worked as an efficiency expert.

Those who check out the cover of his book will discover that his leisure time activities include such diverse endeavors as opera, white-water rafting, photography, gourmet cooking, anthropology and roller-coasters.

His goals in writing the book

- the most difficult task he has had since completing college - are to create more lottery winners and millionaires, and, subsequently, build a "billion-dollar" wall with photocopies of winning tickets purchased by readers of his book.

"I'd like to meet the people who use my methods and win. I think the only place big enough to do this would be a cruise ship. We could all go on a Caribbean cruise and talk about the lottery winnings," Atwood proposed. "I'm also hopeful that people will buy scientific calculators to examine the concepts introduced in my book, and in the process will expand their knowledge of mathematics in their lives."

Atwood hopes to increase the number of winners so much that the figures in his current book will be outdated and he will have to publish a revised edition of his book.

Ann Arbor for treatment of second-degree burns on 14 percent of her body, according to Inkster Fire Chief Victor Boulanger.

"This young man got these people out just in the nick of time," Boulanger added. "The woman was showing signs of carbon monoxide poisoning caused by smoke inhalation. They are fortunate he was at the scene when he was."

Boulanger said that the cause of the fire has not been determined and remains under investigation.

Rice, a junior at Robichaud, said he knew the Bennetts, "because they are neighbors."

And Jake (Bennett's son) plays on the junior varsity football team."

Asked how he felt being a "hero", Rice replied that "he didn't feel that he was." Then Rice confided that he did have an idol - former teammate, Tyrone Wheatley, who led the University of Michigan to the Big 10 Conference title and was the Most Valuable Player at the Rose Bowl.

Robert Yauck, principal at Robichaud who also coaches the football team, noted that "Rice is a very caring person who is respected by the student body here. Johnny would do a thing like that - he wouldn't hesitate to put his life in jeopardy for others."

"In fact, so would Dwaine - they both have good heads on their shoulders."

work and their daughter was in school.

"I saw his truck in the driveway, so I knew he was home," Ridner said. "I just keep pounding."

In the meantime, Howie went to call another neighbor and then attempted to turn the water spigot on. She planned to try to extinguish the fire with a garden hose, but she found the spigot frozen shut.

"At that time, there was only a little smoke. I've got a wood-burner at home, too, so I was pretty sure that was where the fire started," Howie said.

The women continued to ring the door bell and pound on the doors and windows. Finally, Ridner pounded on the bedroom window and awakened the homeowner.

Fire fighters answered the call and extinguished the blaze. The homeowner was uninjured.

Classes begin in Canton

It's not too late to register for classes through the Plymouth-Canton Community School District Community Education program.

Most classes begin Feb. 1 and those interested may register at Canton High School through the first week of classes. Registration for leisure classes will be taken until classes are filled. Brochures containing a complete list of course offerings have been sent to every residence in the district.

Community education offers a wide variety of classes and programs for people of all ages. The adult leisure-time programs include classes in art, automotive technology, cooking, dance exercise and sports, as well as mini-classes ranging from financial planning to leisure activities.

Children may select from courses in test preparation, baby-sitting to physical activities. In addition, educational day camps are offered during mid-winter and spring breaks for children ages five to 11.

The adult high school completion program also is available at no charge for people without a high school diploma. Course offerings include English, math, science, social studies, business, computer instruction, health occupations and GED preparation.

WAYNE COUNTY COMMUNITY COLLEGE IS AN EQUAL OPPORTUNITY EMPLOYER

DANGEROUS

Crossroads harbor hazzards

Danger lurks at street corners

Economic growth during the past two decades has brought additional housing, new shopping center and a spurt of industrial and commercial developments to western Wayne County.

Along with the new residences and businesses, have come more commuters, more shoppers, more visitors, more deliveries and more construction equipment.

Many of the intersections named to the danger list are those on which traffic has recorded a dramatic increase during the past few year. Some are dangerous due to merging traffic from freeways and others because of the large flow of traffic into shopping areas.

However, as local police remind us, human error contributes largely to the perils of crossing dangerous intersections - drivers are often too impatient, too inattentive, too lax about following traffic rules and too much in a hurry to heed speed limits.

Haggerty-Ecorse named most dangerous crossing

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER
Belleville City Editor

Heavy truck traffic from businesses on Haggerty Road plus a nearby freeway entrance contribute to the dangers of the Haggerty-Ecorse intersection in Van Buren Township.

"We have recorded a number of accidents at this intersection, including a fatal one in December," said Van Buren Township Public Safety Director Mark Perkins. "There is a lot of truck traffic in the area, and it is a highly travelled area during the rush hours."

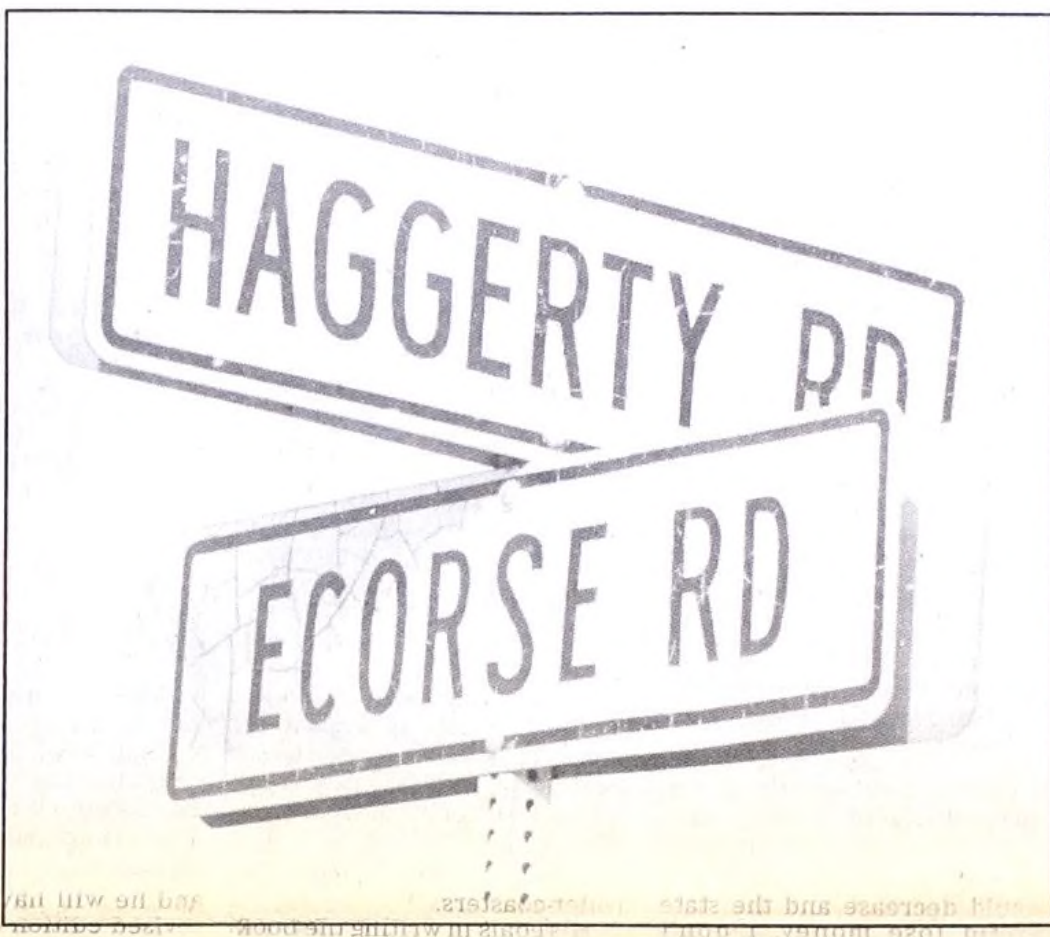

At 7:30 a.m. Dec. 14, a 43-year-old Canton Township woman died in a traffic accident at the Haggerty-Ecorse intersection on her way to work. Brenda Henry was alone in her vehicle when a steel hauler apparently went through a red light and stuck Henry's car on the driver's side.

According to Van Buren Township police, the victim was not wearing a seat belt and was ejected from the vehicle on impact. The semi-trailer turned on its side and two rolls of steel, each weighing 38,000 pounds, were released.

Several other accidents and near mishaps at the intersection have been attributed to several possible causes. The congestion at the exits and entrances to Interstate-275, just east of the intersection, is one of the possible contributing factors to accidents.

An area resident speculated that people unfamiliar with the area may overlook the traffic signal at the intersection

Driver errors blamed for accidents

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

The heavily traveled intersection of Ecorse and Middlebelt Roads has been labeled the most dangerous in the city by Romulus Police.

Ironically, the intersection is not made notorious because of environmental or man-made visual barriers, police said, but because of driver errors.

The immediate area adjoining the intersection contains trucking firms, fast food restaurants, gas stations, businesses - all within a short distance is the Metro Airport, according to Traffic Officer Richard Schwartz.

During the afternoon rush hours (4 to 6 p.m.) traffic becomes so backed up, Schwartz said, that anxious drivers begin to play vehicular roulette by taking unnecessary chances while making left hand turns at the intersection.

Failure to yield is the most repeated traffic offense there, Schwartz said, and it is aggravated by the fact that many motorists passing by there are out-of-towners heading to or from the airport.

Several intersection construction projects are slated in Romulus this spring and summer and could further aggravate the Romulus traffic problems during those construction periods.

Schwartz said except for 1992, Romulus roads have been listed as some of the most dangerous in the region.

"In 1990 a total of 18 traffic deaths were reported within the city. In 1991 the number fell to 10 and then to an unbelievable low of three in 1992. This year has started out with a bang however as three traffic deaths have been reported in the first three weeks," Schwartz said.

Schwartz advises "exercise more patience when driving in congested areas, ignore the horn blowers, obey the rules of the road and keep your car in good running order."

3 sites have most accidents

By MARGO DEWEY
ANP Feature Editor

There are three dangerous intersections in Wayne, and it is not due to any engineering problem, according to Wayne police Lt. Dan Randall.

"The area at east Michigan Avenue and Wayne Road had 19 accidents last year," Randall said. "At west Michigan and Wayne Road there were 15 accidents in 1992."

The third most dangerous area is Venoy and Michigan Avenue which had 30 accidents last year, according to Randall.

"The type of accidents that occurred in those areas were not due to engineering problems, but they were due to the impatience of drivers," Randall said. "Most of the accidents occurred as drivers were making a left turn too quickly or they were too impatient and hit the car in front of them while waiting to turn."

Busy road poses problems

By PATRICIA BROWN
ANP News Editor

It doesn't take most Westland residents very long to identify the busiest and most dangerous intersection in the city.

Anyone who has traveled to Westland Center or any of the surrounding retail facilities can easily pick the intersection that fits that description.

Although most roads in and around the shopping area are busy, the Warren and Wayne roads intersection is by far the busiest which makes it one of the most dangerous, according to Sgt. Pete Brokas, of the Westland Police Department Traffic Bureau.

"With our busiest intersections you can form a circle," Brokas said. "Those intersections include Wayne and Warren roads, Ford and Wayne roads, Ford and Newburgh roads and Newburgh and Warren roads.

"A lot of this has to do with the shopping center," Brokas added. "Out of those four intersections, the Wayne and Warren roads intersection has more accidents than the others."

Although it is the busiest and the most accident prone, most of the fatalities in the city occur on a road and not necessarily an intersection, according to Brokas.

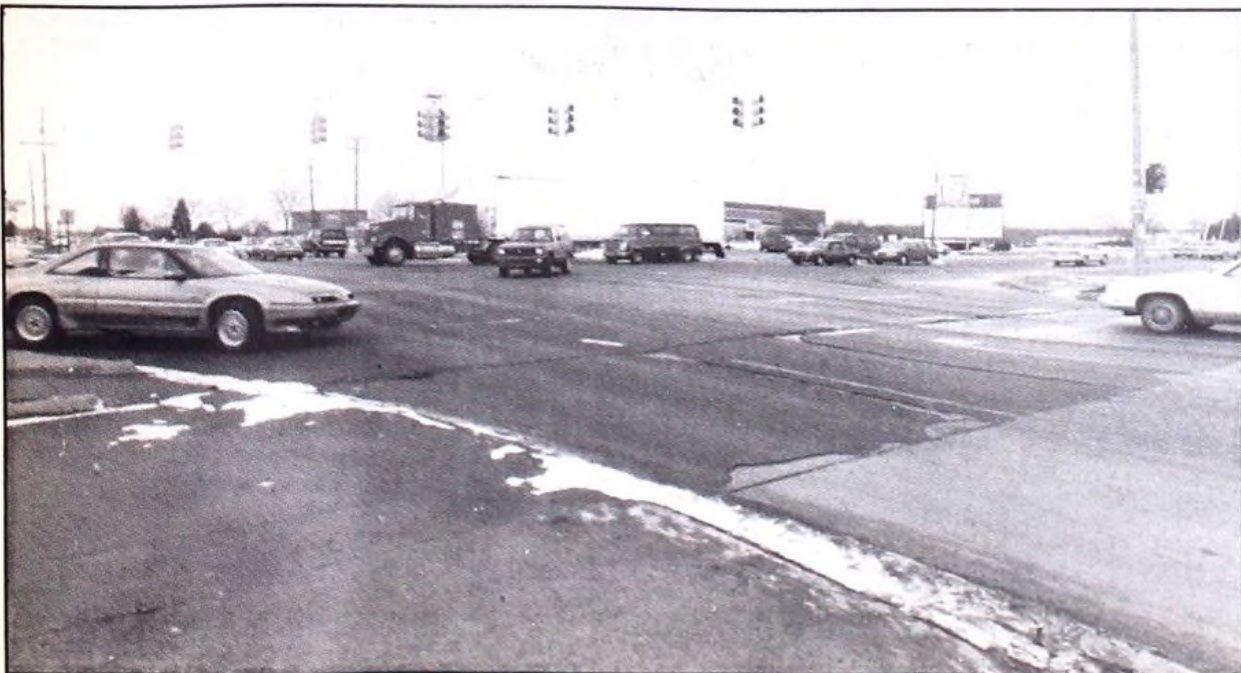

"We had three fatalities last year and all three happened on Newburgh Road," Brokas said. "We had one on Newburgh south of Palmer, the second on Newburgh north of the railroad tracks and the third on Newburgh and Cherry Hill."

The reason Newburgh Road is so dangerous is because it is a two-lane highway, Brokas said. "You are always going to have a lot of fatalities on two-lane roadways," Brokas added. "People are in a hurry and if they try to pass on the right they run the risk of being run off the road. And if they pass on the left they can run right into oncoming traffic."

"Five-lane roadways don't have as many fatalities because the driver has more room to adjust," he added.

"You can't prevent all fatalities and you have limited impact on those that you can," Brokas said.

Traffic at the corner of Middlebelt and Ecorse roads in Romulus is shown at the top of the page. A sign indicates the Haggerty-Ecorse intersection in Van Buren Township, and the corner of East Michigan and Wayne roads in Wayne is shown in the center. Above, the intersection of Warren and Wayne roads in Westland has been listed as the most dangerous in the city. ANP photo by Ken Garner/ photo by Larry Divizio

Day care is 'home alone' remedy

By CRAIG GARRETT
ANP Staff Writer

The majority of children, contrary to the movies, have no desire to be left "home alone."

"I think many adults see a sophistication in children that isn't really there," said Pat MacIsaac, coordinator of the Plymouth-Canton Schools Extended Day Care program. "In surveys we've done, some kids say that they like day care because it's fun or they want to learn something, but most are afraid of being home alone. It's their number-one fear."

A recent American Red Cross report indicated that more than one-third of all elementary age children take care of themselves after school. Plymouth-Canton School Board officials recognized increased needs three years ago and voted to implement a school-age child care program at each of the 12 elementary schools in the district. Some 400 youngsters participated the first year and, according to MacIsaac, 600 children have signed up full-or part-time this year.

"Providing manageable, efficient day care is a service more and more parents need," the 20-year teaching veteran said. "Plus the children need less transition in their lives. We allow the kids freedom to run and play and talk, yet still work under school rules."

MacIsaac said children also play board games, handle manipulatives and work in arts and crafts groups. The program features 7 a.m. drop-off times. Children are expected to be picked up by 6 each night and schools have two adult supervisors for every 25 youngsters. Cost is $4 for morning session and $5 for afternoons.

Maryann Haggerty of the American Red Cross said the "Home Alone Syndrome" has surfaced primarily in the last 10 years.

"Most kids handle the responsibility of leaving school and going home rather well," Haggerty said. "Microwaves have helped a lot. But I don't think we'll see the real implications of the phenomenon for many years. I can't imagine it's easy being small and fending for yourself."

Red Cross offers courses, literature and videos to parents and children interested in making the "home-alone experience" a little easier. Subject areas include: proper use of house keys, important telephone numbers, answering the phone and using it in emergencies, home rules, coming home from school, checking the house before entering, answering the door, what to do in case of fire, fun things to do when alone and how to deal with strangers.

Haggerty said social groups, like Boy and Girl Scouts, often borrow videos for instructional classes. So many groups ask to borrow material that the Red Cross has to schedule well in advance.

"Kids appreciate parents taking the time to discuss being home alone," Haggerty added. "And I really don't think they mind being asked to watch themselves, it's just when parents are trying to cast the kids aside they seem to mind. No one likes being put aside."

For more details concerning Red Cross material telephone 494-2858.

Wayne-Westland voters face school tax hike

Voters in the Wayne-Westland school district will be asked to approve a 6-mill increase for three years and a Headlee Override April 5.

In June the current 7.75 millage will expire and school officials are hoping that by lowering the current millage rate, they can convince voters to agree to the needed millage. Without the 6-mill approval, officials are predicting drastic program cuts and reduction of staff.

Board members unanimously approved the upcoming election. Board member Fred Warmbier abstained from voting for the Headlee Override.

Voters will also be asked to approve a Headlee Override. Currently the district can levy up to 48.4 mills, but due to the Headlee Rollback Amendment, they have been reduced to levying 47.1236 mills. Each year the state can continue to take a portion of the 48.4 mills, but approval of the override will secure the rate.

"We need a guarantee that the state won't take any more away from us," said Superintendent of Schools Larry Thomas.

Board members emphasized the need for voters to approve the Headlee Override. "We'll be in deep trouble if Headlee doesn't go through," said School Board President Leonard Posey.

If the new millage rate is approved with the override, then the district would levy 46.65 mills for three years, according to Chief Fiscal Officer

Randy Liepa.

"We want to reduce the millage," Thomas said. "We want to continue to offer the educational programs we offer and improve the educational programs and we want to improve efficiency."

Thomas' comments concerning fiscal responsibility were echoed by board member Francis "Bud" Winter who also called for tightening of the belt throughout the district. The two disagreed when it came to the method used to present the millage to the public.

Winter demanded there be no secrets.

"I don't think I can go out there without telling the people there will be multi-million dollar cutbacks in this district, if this millage doesn't go through," Winter said.

Thomas wanted to keep the focus of the election positive and to refrain from presenting the hardships that the district will encounter if voters don't approve the 6 mills and the override.

"I've been through many millage elections in this district in the past 40 years," said Winter who retired after serving as the Principal at Wayne Memorial High School. "You have to be realistic and above all, you have to be honest."

Currently the district has a $5 million fund balance which could quickly be depleted if Gov. John Engler announces further cuts to the state education budget.

"There are still some unknown variables," Liepa said. "We're waiting to see what the governor will do."

Even if the millage is approved, all departments in the school district will be closely monitored so officials can find areas to enforce cutbacks, Thomas added.

Officials in the finance department and employee services departments will spend the next weeks preparing various outcomes which will be determined by the election results.

Liepa will prepare three versions of the budget for next year. Associated Superintendent of Employee Services Bill Taylor will begin preparing possible staff reductions if the millage doesn't receive voter approval.

Two years ago, voters failed to approve a millage increase which left district officials with having to reduce programs. Students who attend junior high school had a five-hour day and all athletics were on a pay-to-play basis and most expressive arts programs were eliminated at the elementary and junior high school levels. Students who participated in expressive arts at the high school level were also forced to pay-to-play.

Both high schools also came close to losing the accreditation status from the North Central Accreditation.

Hydrant testing slated for Wayne

The Wayne Fire Department will be testing fire hydrants Feb. 1-6.

Cloudy tap water may be encountered during the testing period, according to the fire department.

There are no health hazards associated with this situation. If residents experience cloudy water, they can run the faucet to eliminate the problem, fire department officials said.

Armed robber nabbed after chase in Canton

By CRAIG GARRETT
ANP Staff Writer

Hard-nosed police work led to the arrest Tuesday of a Canton Township man wanted for the shotgun robbery of a township business.

Officers were called to the Wilderberry Party Store, 42444 Ford Road, at approximately 7:21 a.m. in response to an armed robbery report. Employees said a white man wearing a green jacket entered the store, produced a sawed-off shotgun and demanded money. The suspect fled on foot with approximately $100 and two bottles of liquor.

Township officers immediately began a search of the surrounding area, stopping pedestrians and describing the robbery suspect. During the course of the chase police found a fully loaded weapon similar to the shotgun described, police said.

An hour later, police in an area south west of the party store learned that a man matching the suspect's description had been spotted on Saltz Road. At 8:55 a.m. the suspect was spotted near Saltz Road and Saltz Court and once again police chased the suspect on foot. After a brief struggle, 28-year-old Charles Hill of Canton Township was taken into custody. Police also recovered a large hunting knife and $88 cash during the chase, according to police officials.

Hill was arraigned Wednesday on an armed robbery charge before 35th District Judge John MacDonald. The magistrate entered a plea of not guilty and ordered Hill to post a $50,000 cash bond. Hill, convicted for burglary in 1983, is lodged in the Wayne County Jail. A Feb. 5 preliminary exam was postponed until forensic tests are completed, police said.

Romulus woman wins $100,000

A 73-year-old Romulus woman had an extra reason to be happy at her birthday party last Tuesday - she won $100,000 in the "Cash 5" lottery drawing.

The unidentified woman turned in a "Cash 5" newspaper coupon for a free ticket that later matched all five numbers on the "Cash 5" drawing.

The Michigan Lottery had run a coupon in several newspapers on Jan. 17, which said "Buy One Play, Get One Play Free."

The winning ticket was "a wonderful birthday gift," the woman said. "I had my family and friends over for dinner that night and everyone was excited. I jumped up and down."

She plans to share her winnings with her family.

Supervisor, trustees attend inaugural ceremonies, events

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER
Belleville City Editor

Witnessing the swearing-in ceremonies and attending the inaugural ball were the highlights of the Washington, D.C. trip of Van Buren Township Supervisor David Jakokes.

"I've never been a part of something so upbeat," said Jakokes, describing his visit to the inauguration ceremonies. "It was a wonderful experience. It was encouraging and there was a feeling of change in the air - a super-optimistic spirit. I've never had the opportunity to experience anything like it."

Jakokes was one of the fortunate people who attended the Presidential Inaugural Ball.

"I purchased tickets for $125 each for the Inaugural Ball, and we were among the fortunate ticket-purchasers who were able to attend. Apparently, just after we entered, the doors were closed by the fire marshal because of overcrowding," Jakokes said. "I heard that some people were offering $5,000 for tickets, but I wouldn't have sold mine for any price."

A few minutes after Jakokes and his wife, Jeanette, entered the Presidential Inaugural Ball, President and Mrs. Clinton entered. They stayed for about 10 minutes before leaving for another event.

The Jakokeses stayed at the Hyatt Regency Hotel, the same hotel where South African black activist Nelson Mandela was staying.

"I had hoped to see Mandela, but I didn't think my chances were very good. However, a young security guard saw me with my camera and asked if I would take a photo of him and Mandela. He brought me to Mandela and posed with him. This was just before Mandelo met with Clinton," Jakokes said.

While in Washington, Jakokes visited Arlington Cemetery and other sights in the area. He and other members of his party attending events sponsored by Congressman William Ford and Wayne County Executive Ed McNamara. They met many dignitaries, including some of the new cabinet appointees.

Van Buren Township Trustee Donna Clark, president of the Van Buren-Belleville Democratic Club reported "a feeling of love and joy and a sense of hope."

Other members of the Van Buren Township group were Bob Clark, Trustee Walter Rochowiak and his wife, Joyce, and Susan Ireland.

Wayne Democrats join gala celebrations

By MARGO DEWEY
ANP Feature Editor

It was the gala celebration of all time, and Metro Wayne Democratic President Cliff Johnson was part of the historic moment when the 42nd U.S. president was sworn in on Jan. 20.

Johnson braved the cold weather with his wife Marie. They gathered in front of the Capitol about 9 a.m.

"There were a lot of people there," Johnson said. "I would say over one million people crowded in the streets. We weren't able to get too close. Some people began lining up about 6 a.m."

The Johnsons attended a breakfast reception prior to the ceremony.

"We met with Congressman William Ford while we were in Washington," Johnson said. "We went to two parties which included the Michigan ball."

Johnson said he had tickets to the Tennessee and Arkansas balls but was unable to attend.

When the big moment arrived, Johnson said he was very impressed with President Bill Clinton's inauguration speech.

"I thought it was great," Johnson said. "He reached out and touched all the people there with his words. The attitude of the people all around us was very different. They all seemed more positive and more friendly."

Johnson believes Clinton will carry out his goals to attain a national health care system and provide more jobs.

"It's time to pull together," Johnson said. "We have to stop this division of race. Never before have I seen so many people wanting to take back America and help each other."

How should Tiger Stadium be saved?

Tiger Stadium is unlike any other ballpark throughout sports history, according to Detroit Free Press reporter Michael Betzold. When fans are seated, they are closer to the field than in any other ballpark in the country. ANP Special Photo

Tiger Stadium actually dates back to 1912. The park that was located at Michigan and Trumbull from 1896 to 1911 was called Bennett Park. It was an old wooden structure, according to Betzold. Betzold believes renovating Tiger Stadium would be the best choice. ANP Special Photo

Take me out to the ball game, take me out to the park. Buy me some peanuts and cracker jacks.

Tiger Stadium is in a league all its own, according to Detroit Free Press reporter Michael Betzold.

"There is no other stadium in the country like the Tiger Stadium," Betzold said. Recently this investigative reporter presented the Wayne Chamber of Commerce an update on the ins and outs of what's in store for this ballpark.

Betzold is the co-author of Queen of Diamonds-The Tiger Stadium Story.

"This is an issue everyone has a stake in," Betzold said. "The decision on whether to kill the new stadium or not directly affects everyone one of us."

"It affects us as citizens of this Detroit area and of Michigan. It affects us as taxpayers, and it affects us as business people."

Betzold wrote Queen about a year ago because he felt it was important for people to have the information about what is at stake with the Tiger Stadium decision.

"It is a decision the public will have to make, not just the owner of the team or the mayor of the City of Detroit," Betzold said.

Queen presents the history of Tiger Stadium, and it addresses the issue of whether or not Tiger Stadium should be saved.

"What I want to address to you today are four questions: Could Tiger Stadium be saved? Can Tiger Stadium be saved? Does it make sense to save Tiger Stadium? Will Tiger Stadium be saved?" Betzold said.

When discussing if Tiger Stadium should be saved, Betzold said the first thing to look at is the historical value of the ballpark.

"Tiger Stadium at Michigan and Trumbull is at the oldest address in professional sports in America," Betzold said. "Baseball has been played at Michigan and Trumbull since 1896 when the Tigers had a minor league team."

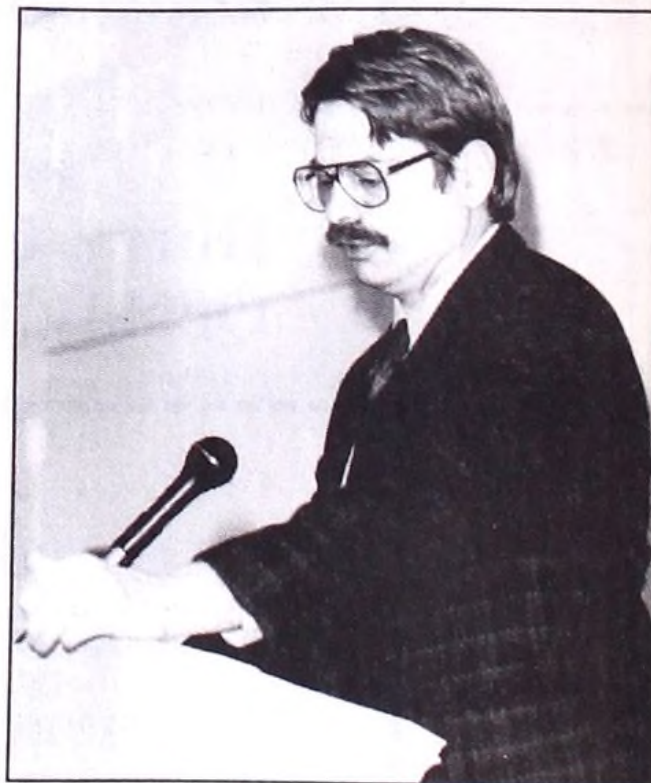

"Major league baseball has been played there since 1901." More major league games have been played at Michigan and Trumbull than anywhere else, according to Betzold.

"More homeruns have been hit than anywhere else probably on the face of this earth," Betzold said. "For a century it has been a common ground for everyone who calls themselves a Detroiter no matter where they live."

Tiger Stadium actually dates back to 1912, according to Betzold.

"The park that was at Michigan and Trumbull from 1896 to 1911 was called Bennett Park, and it was an old wooden structure," Betzold said. "Home plate faced in the wrong direction. It was in what is now the right field corner."

Celebration continues in Wayne

By MARGO DEWEY
ANP Feature Editor

The morning hours of Jan. 20 at the Wayne Convalescent Center were filled with excitement as residents scurried to find their place in front of the television.

Lifetime Democrat Maria Kost, 96, celebrated the inauguration ceremony of President Bill Clinton with her friends. She sang God Bless America during the party.

"He will definitely make a great president," Kost said. "I'm happy we have a young president because it gives us more hope for the future."

Kost said she supported Clinton throughout his campaign. Metro Democratic President Cliff Johnson presented her with an official invitation to the inauguration and a Clinton/Al Gore button before he made his journey to Washington D.C.

"He wants to improve this country, and I know he will," Kost said. "He has the support of the young and old."

Kost believes Clinton's vigor and integrity will put America back on track in terms of the economy.

"I know he will improve our educational system, and I know he will provide a health plan for all citizens to benefit," Kost said. "In life, in order to be successful, what you need to do is have a trade and stick with it."

"Bill Clinton knew what he wanted to do at a young age, and he stuck with it."

Wayne Convalescent officials provided cider, cakes and balloons at the party. As Kost began singing God Bless America, her friends raised their cider glasses and sang with her.

Heart throb Most eligible singles in area sought

We know they're out there. We've seen them and admit to having cast a few lustful or at least curious glances their way. They are men and women, of any age, who always seem to catch the eye, and the heart, of the opposite sex. You know the type. No matter where or when, they can always find a date, often too many dates.

We'd like to meet them and introduce these "most desirable" singles to our readers.

The qualifications are simple. They must be single, reside in our circulation area and someone has to nominate them.

Our expert panel of judges will select the winners by the number of entries received for individuals, although we are often swayed by the quality of writing in entries. A photo of the nominee would be helpful, but is not essential.

Got it?
Great. Get writing. Who is the most desirable single you know? And, obvious reasons aside, what makes them so attractive or appealing to the opposite sex?

Hurry, because we plan to announce the winners around Valentine's Day, which certainly seems appropriate to us.

Send entries to: SINGLES CONTEST, Associated Newspapers, Inc. P.O. Box 578, Wayne, Mich. 48184.

Reported abduction is a mystery

By PATRICIA BROWN
ANP News Editor

A reported abduction of a woman in the parking lot at Westland Center Tuesday evening has left Westland police officials stumped.

A woman walking to her car in the parking lot on the south east side of the shopping center reported seeing a young woman walking an aisle away pulled into an older van by two males, police said.

"Nobody has been reported as missing," said Officer Debra Mathews, of the Westland Police Department Detective Bureau. "We are thinking that it might possibly have been a domestic dispute. We've checked all of the local police departments and no one is missing."

Police thought it might have been a Walled Lake woman

"Nobody has been reported as missing. We are thinking that it might possibly have been a domestic dispute. We've checked all of the local police departments and no one is missing."

- Debra Mathews

who was reported missing, but she has since been found and a teenage girl from Plymouth, who was also reported missing, has also been found.

Even though the incident may have been a prank, Mathews cautioned shoppers to always be aware of who is around them when they are walking to their cars.

"They should check around their vehicles and inside of the vehicle before they get in," she said. "They should have their keys ready before they get to their cars."

The woman who reported the possible abduction could not provide police with a good description of the two men or the van.

"It is very hard to see under those sodium vapor lights," Mathews said. "Without a missing person we don't have very much to go on. We've done as much as we can possibly do."

Mathews has requested individuals who may have information phone her at 721-6311.

3. Card of Thanks

PRAYER TO HOLY SPIRIT
Holy Spirit, you make me see everything and show me the ways to reach my ideas. You give me the divine gift to forgive and forget the wrongs that have been done to me and you are in all instances of my life with me. In this short dialogue want to thank you for everything and confirm once more that I never want to be separated from you no matter how great the material desires might be. I want to be with you, my loved one in Your perpetual glory, Amen. Persons must say this prayer three consecutive days without asking your wish after three days your wish will be granted no matter how difficult it may be. Publish this dialogue as soon as the favor has been granted. Thanks St. Jude for favors received. E.R.S.

Thumbs up!

Driving a Buick Regal four-door is truly a Regal experience for motorists

By CRAIG GARRETT
ANP Staff Writer

Testing driving cars, you get used to people oggling and touching the $40,000 plus European and Japanese models as if the sheet metal were mink. But it's refreshing as spring rain to get "thumbs up" tooling along the highway in a Flint designed and manufactured Buick - priced at roughly half the price.

The 1993 Regal, or the $22,800 four-door Gran Sport sedan tested, is a significant car in the Buick line-up for a variety of considerations.

Reason No. 1: Regal's roomy and cushy leather (optional) interior is neatly packaged in a coefficient (sleek) sheet metal body (standard) featuring the new integrated hood, grille and headlamps up front and the blunt wraparound with big, bold taillights in back.

Interior road noise is minimal, doors "chunk" closed and body engineering is tight, although the right rear door was slightly off flush and the trunk lid feels tinny when slammed shut.

Reason No. 2: The 3800 V-6 is plenty strong and gets reasonable mileage at 19 city and 28 highway. Coupled with the new Hydra-matic 4T60-E electronic transmission (trans-axle), the 3800 provides surprisingly smooth, even acceleration through each gear and offers none of the head jerkiness associated with past General Motors transmissions. Torque has been ramped up slightly to 225 lb-ft and horsepower is strong at 170. In other words, when you stomp on it, Regal goes.

Inside, Regal is remarkably well laid out. All Regals are equipped with "next generation" seating - orthopedically contoured - to provide and extremely comfortable (plenty wide) spot to rest your upper legs.

Reason No. 3: Inside, Regal is remarkably well laid out. All Regals are equipped with "next generation" seating - orthopedically contoured - to provide an extremely comfortable (plenty wide) spot to rest your upper legs. The nose of the seat cushion, according to Buick promotionalists, has been "rounded to relieve pressure on the backs of the legs of shorter drivers, while the backrest has been reshaped to provide better back support." Whatever, the seats feel nice and comfy, plus backseat space provides ample room for three American-sized adults.

The unusually designed dash sports analog gauges and the standard panic light read-out, all of which are fairly easy to read if the steering wheel is at the right angle. Additional radio dials (six) are mounted on the wheel for driving ease, although this is kind of an overkill. And interior storage space is somewhat limited.

Reason No. 4: Regal is mounted on 15-inch tires this year in favor of the 14-inchers in 1992. Ride is firm and smooth with MacPherson struts and a transverse leaf springs in the rear. Tight highway ramps are a breeze and quick stops are aided by optional anti-lock brakes, although it must be noted front brakes squeaked slightly with only 4,000 miles.

Overall, Regal is a sharp vehicle with ample power and a wonderful ride. Get used to road companions oggling your David Dunbar, folks!
